MALWORTH.

MY M N S.

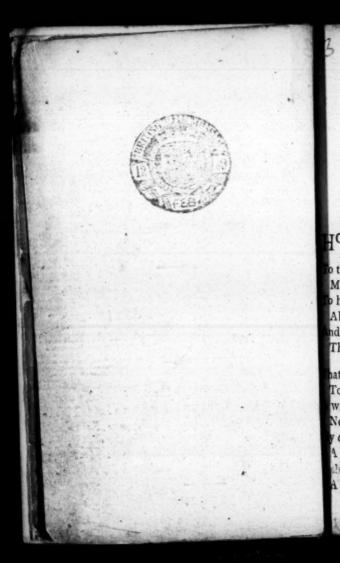

By J. SWAIN,

e stor of the Baptist Church meeting there.

ag praise unto our God, for it is pleasant; and praise is wh. Let the children of Zion be joyful in their King. They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodin, and shall sing of the righteousness. All thy works shall praise thee, O Jehovah, and thy saints it less thee. Fialms.

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR THE AUTHOR. dby J. MATHEWS, No. 18, Strand; BUT-TON, Newington Causeway; Mrs. GURNEY, Holborn; and at the Vestry of East-street Meeting-house, Walworth.

H Y M N S.

HYMN I.

Comfort under Affliction.

NEW JERUSALEM TUNE.

IOW light (while supported by grace)
Are all the afflictions I see, those the dear Lord of my peace,
My Jesus, has suffer'd for me!
thin ev'ry comfort I owe,
Above what the fiends have in hell;
and shall I not sing as I go,
That Jesus does every thing well?

nat Jesus, who stoop'd from his throne
To pluck such a brand from the fire;
wretch that had nought of his own.
Not even a holy desire!
y only inheritance sin,
A slave to rebellion and lust;
hated without and within,
A child of corruption and dust,

Such was I when Jefus look'd down,
When none but himfelf could relieve:
What could I expect but a frown?
Yet he graciously smil'd, and said, 'Live!'
And shall I impatiently fret
And murmur beneath his kind rod?
His love and his mercy forget,
And sly in the sace of my God?

Oh no; in the strength he has giv'n,
And pledg'd his own word to bestow,
I'll fight through my passage to heav'n,
And sing of his love as I go!
He'll purge away nought but my dross:
Then let him afflict; I'll adore,
And cheerfully bear up, the cross
Which Jesus has carry'd before!

HYMN II.

H

Je

So

Po

NORTHAMPTON TUNE.

On the wings of faith uprifing, Jefus crucify'd I fee; While his love, my foul furprifing, Cries, I fuffer'd all for thee! Then, beneath the crofs adoring, Sin does like itself appear;
When, the wounds of Christ exploring,
I can read my pardon there.

Here I'd feast my eyes for ever:
While this balm of life I prove,
Every wound appears a river
Flowing with eternal love!

As the fea, in restitution, Renders filthy waters clear; Wash'd in this from deep pollution, Sinners white as angels are.

Here, the shades of guilt controlling, Morning dawns from blackest night; Jesu's eyes, in darkness rolling, Beam forth everlasting light!

Sorrow proves the fpring of pleafure,
War becomes the feed of peace,
Powery the fource of treafure,
Anguish teams with boundless bliss!

Who can think without admiring?
Who can hear and nothing feel?
See the Lord of life expiring,
Yet retain a heart of feel?

Angels here may gaze and wonder

What the God of love could mean,
When he tore the heart afunder
Never once defil'd with fin!

HYMN III. L.M.

A fudden Thought in a sweet Frame of Mind.

MARTIN'S-LANE TUNE.

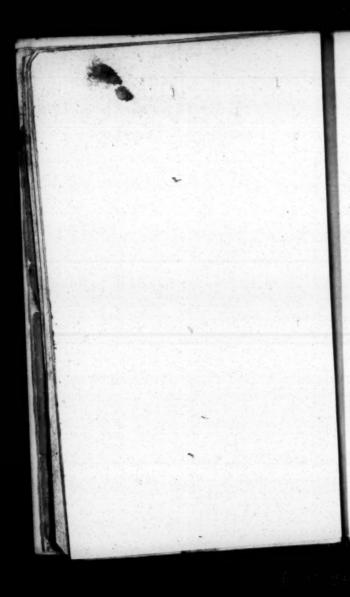

My foul, whene'er thou shalt arrive On those bright hills where angels live, What object first will draw thine eyes? And where wilt thou begin thy joys?

Methinks when I (releas'd from fin)
My everlasting work begin,
When on my new-fledg'd wings I rife,
And tread the shores beyond the skies;

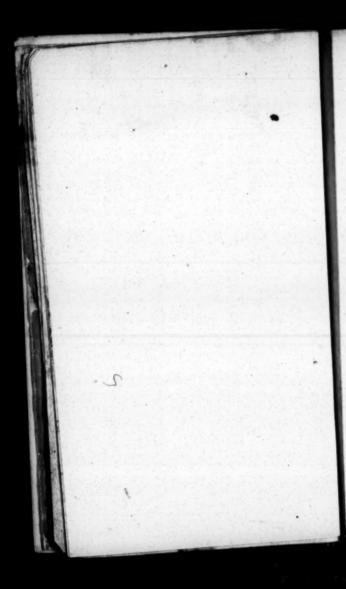

I'll run through ev'ry golden street,
And ask each happy foul I meet,
Where is the Lord whose praise you sing

Direct a stranger to the King.'

Nor reft till I my Lord have found, Till on his wounded fide I gaze. And fee my Saviour face to fa nd. ing

No want of fun or show'rs above
To make the flow'rs decline;
Fountains of life and beams of love
For ever spring and shine.

No more they need the quick'ning air, Or gently rifing dew; Unfpeakable their beauties are, And yet for ever new.

Christ is their shade, and Christ their sun;
Among them walks the Kine;
Whose presence is ETERNAL NOON;
His smiles ETERNAL SPRING.

HYMN VIII.

On Psalm Twenty-fourth.

TRUMPET TUNE.

Lift up your heads, ye gates,
Your golden hinges move;
The King of glory waits—
Admit the God of leve!
Your everlasting arches raise,
And, as he enters, shout his praise,

Who is this glorious King, Who at the portal stands? What title does he bring,
That he access demands?
Jehovah's name, in battle strong,
Demands access, inspires the song.

I ift up your heads, ye gates;
Ye heav'ns, expand your doors;
The King of glory waits
To fpread your golden floors
With fpoils thro' death and darkness borne,
With trophies from destruction torn.

1

7

St

un

H

Who is this glorious King?

The Lord that built the skies:

His praise the seraphs sing,

The holy, just, and wise:

Creation rose at his command,

Redemption owns his sov'reign hand.

The pow'rs of hell oppos'd,
While he in conflict bled;
And death's strong bars were clos'd Round his expiring head:
But death and hell possess no pow'r
To hold him past th' appointed hour.

The hour appointed came, The God put off the clay; And, like a rapid flame,

Burst through them all his way:

A way so wide, so unconfin'd,

That all his church might march behind,

Lift your immortal heads,
Your Lord's from conquest come;
On death and sin he treads;
Let heav'n prepare him room:
A sheaf of glory's harvest-ears *
The Victor in his chariot bears!

HYMN IX. L.M.

Christ the Way to God.

Where thy dear people wait for thee!
Where the rich fountain of thy grace Stands ever open, full and free.

dungry, and poor, and lame, and blind, Hither thy blood-bought children fly; a thy deep wounds a balfam find, And live, while they behold thee die.

Alluding to the faints which came out of their graves this refurrection.

re

A

Ve

A

hu

0 cu

Ar

Be

An

nd i

In

nd t

To:

10

And

t sti

Whi

Hear they forget their doubts and fears, While thy fharp forrows meet their eyes; And blefs the hand that dries their tears, And with his own their grief supplies.

Oh, the vast myst'ries of thy love!

How high, how deep, how wide, it rolls!

Its fountain springs in heav'n above,

Its streams revive our drooping souls!

HYMN X. L.M.

Christ our Substitute.

When Jefus would redeem his bride;
Nothing but precious blood would do,
And that must flow from his own side.

Yet from the heights of bliss he fled
On wings of everlasting love,
And groan'd, and sigh'd, and wept, and bled,
The mountains of our guilt to move.

How glorious was the work he wrought
While dwelling in this earthly globe,
When each good deed and each pure thought Confpir'd to weave our fpotless robe!

refs'd in this robe, wash'd in this blood, And ransom'd from the pow'r of hell, Ve now have free access to God, And justice likes the payment well.

hus Jefus wrought our righteousness,
Our guilt fustain'd, our forrows bore;
cur'd our everlasting peace,
And triumph'd o'er the ferpent's pow'r.

nd now in heav'n he lives to plead Before his holy Father's throne hat he has fuffer'd in our stead; And fends us gifts and graces down.

nd foon will this dear Saviour come, In majesty and glory drest, and take his ransom'd children home To seats of everlasting rest.

HYMN XI. C.M.

The Complaint under Darknefs.

ed,

ght

CAROLINA TUNE.

IJOICE in God, the word commands, And fain would I obey; thill my fpirit ling'ring stands, While doubts impede my way.

How can my foul exult for joy t
Which feels this load of fin?
How can fweet praise my tongue employ While darkness reigns within?

Whence should my lips give rapture birth,
When I no rapture feel?
Or how should notes of heav'nly mirth
Sound from an heart of steel?

If falling tears and rifing fighs
In triumph share a part;
Then, Lord, behold these streaming eyes,
And search this bleeding heart.

T

SI

Th

Th:

ne p My

My foul forgets to use her wings; My harp neglected lies; For sin has broken all its strings, And guilt shuts out my joys.

In vain I fearch the creatures round;
Their ev'ry answer this—
No pleasure can in us be found

' If God is not your blifs.'

HYMN XII. C.M.

The Answer.

SWINFORD TUNE.

ARR! from the crofs, a gracious voice Salutes my ravish'd ears— Rejoice, thou ransom'd foul, rejoice, And dry those falling teats!

Amaz'd, I turn, grown ftrangely bold, This wondrous thing to fee; And there my dying Lord behold, Stretch'd on the bloody tree!

Sinner,' he cries, ' behold the head
'This thorny wreath entwines;
Look on these wounded hands, and read
'Thy name in crimson lines:

These wounds I bear, these pains I feel,
This anguith rends my breast,
That I may save thy soul from hell,
And give thee endless rest.

he pow'r, the fweetness, of that voice My stony heart can move, ake me in Christ my Lord rejoice And melt my foul to love.

B

No more my harp neglected lies
With filent, broken ftrings;
From earth my foul has learn'd to rife,
And mounts on eagles' wings.

My dying Saviour's wondrous love On earth employs my tongue; And when I walk in white above That love shall be my fong.

HYMN XIII.

Praise for Salvation.

MADAN'S TUNE.

7

B

hi

ce

his

I fa

hir

1p

hin

hin

fa

him

oug

FATHER, our hearts would now afpire, On wings of faith and strong desire, To thy celestial courts above, Where all is glory, peace, and love.

We praise thee for the boundless grace Extended to our fallen race, When we, in our first parents, fell From Eden to the gates of hell.

We praise the Son, who freely came From heav'n to bear our fin and shame; Who fought, who conquer'd, all our foes, And bore the weight of all our woes. e blefs the Spirit's facred name, ho kindled that internal flame holy faith, and holy love, hich draws, and keeps our hearts above.

HYMN XIV. L.M.

Praise for a complete Saviour.
WREATH'S TUNE.

long for that fair morning's light, hen we, in robes of spotless white, Il join the bright redeemed throng fing that new and endless fong-To him that lives, but once was flain, Be honour, pow'r, and praise. Amen. him that lov'd us when we lay ceal'd in uncreated clay; him that lov'd us, though we fell. fav'd us from the pains of hellhim that found us dead in fin. planted holy life within; him that taught our feet the way m endless night to endless dayim that wrought our righteousness, fanctify'd us by his grace; im that brought us back to God,

To him that fits upon the throne, The great, eternal Three in One — To him let faints and angels raife An everlasting fong of praise!

HYMN XV. L.M.

A Prospect of the Last Day.

MADAN'S TUNE.

b

d

d

hen

ink

vor nk

d ba hea

rnal

l joi

it ne

I know that my Redeemer lives: And that bright morning will appear When every foul that now believes Shall rife and meet him in the air.

Soon shall the op'ning clouds disclose The terrors of the Judge's frown To all his now presumptuous soes, And thunder swift destruction down.

The awful trumpet's folemn found Shall foon his near approach declare, And all that fleep beneath the ground His life-refforing voice shall hear.

What wondrous grandeur, pow'r and lova Will our Redeemer then difplay, While earth beneath, and heav'n above At once his potent call obey! and hurls the wicked down to hell, shall bid the happy faints arife, and with their Lord in glory dwell.

Triumphant over fin and death, These bodies into life thall spring; and tune their first celestial breath bleeding Saviour's love to sing.

HYMN XVI. L.M.

Joyful Expectation of Heaven.

MARTIN'S-LANE TUNE.

on am I bleft with Jefu's love?

Ind thall I dwell with him above?

Ind will the joyful period come then I thall call the heav'ns my home?

link, O my foul, what must it be world of glorious minds to see, ank at the fountain head of peace, d bathe in everlasting bliss!

lova

ie

hear them all at once proclaim mal glories to the Lamb; ljoin, with joyful heart and tongue, it new, that never-ending fong!

B 3

And does the happy hour draw near, When Christ will in the clouds appear; And I without a vail shall see The Man, the God that bled for me!

If in my foul fuch joy abounds While weeping faith explores his wounds, How glorious will those scars appear When perfect bliss forbids a tear! (1

R

Sti

Ho

Gui

Y

Harl

Fo

Think, O my foul, if 'tis so sweet On earth to sit at Jesu's feet, What must it be to wear a crown, And sit with Jesus on his throne!

HYMN XVII.

The Coming of Christ to Judgment.
HELMSLEY TUNE.

Lo, he comes, array'd in vengeance,
Riding down the heav'nly road;
Floods of fury roll before him.—
Who can meet an angry God?
Tremble finners,
Who can stand before his rod!

Lo he comes, in glory shining; Saints, arise and meet your King! Glorious Captain of falvation, 'Welcome! welcome!' hear them fing!
Shouts of triumph,
Make the heav'ns with echoes ring.

(Now, despisers, look and wonder!

Hear the dreadful sound 'Depart,' Rattling, like a peal of thunder,

Through each guilty rebel's heart!

Lost for ever,

Hope and sinners here must part!

ls,

t.

Still they hear the awful fentence;
Hell refounds the dreadful roar,
While their heart-strings twinge with anguish,
Trembling on the burning shore!
Justice seals it—
Down they fink, to rise no more!

How they shrink, with horror viewing
Hell's deep caverns op'ning wide!
Guilty thoughts, like ghosts purfuing,
Plunge them down the rolling tide!
Now consider,
Ye who scorn the Lamb that dy'd!)

Hark! ten thousand harps resounding!
Form'd in bright and grand array,

See the glorious armies rifing,
While their Captain leads the way!
Heav'n before them
Opens an eternal day!

HYMN XVIII. C.M.
Communion with Saints above.

B

Th

Th

Lil

1

CAMBRIDGE NEW TUNE.

Tis good to wait upon the Lord When Christ himself draws near, And ev'ry heart with one accord Ascends in solemn prayer.

While thus we feel the Saviour's love In heav'nly show'rs descend, Our fouls commune with saints above In blis that knows no end.

We taste the precious streams of grace— The fountain makes them sing: We travel through the wilderness— They sit before the King.

We pray for grace to hold out well
The conflict but begun;
They of their past engagements tell,
And fing the conquests won.

And are fometimes cast down; hey wield no more the warrior's fword, But wear the conqueror's crown.

HYMN XIX. C.M.

The fame.

THE faints above, in spotless white,
For ever sing and shine;
Our clothing oft abhors the light,
And we in darkness pine.

Yet we all eat one living bread, And fhare one noble birth; Though they in heav'n are richly fed, And we fupply'd on earth.

They all were once as vile as we,
And wore the chains of fin;
Like us they struggled to be free,
And mourn'd the plague within.

And foon shall we, as bright as they, In robes of honour shine. And spend with them an endless day, In pleasures all divine. Then shall we all begin at home
One everlasting fong:
Till then, dear Lord, thy kingdom come!
Nor let the time be long.

HYMN XX. L.M.

A Prospect of the Resurrection.

CHARD TUNE.

b

So

60

WHAT joys will crown that happy hour, When in the air the Lord we meet, And triumph o'er infernal pow'r, With Satan bruis'd beneath our feet!

When waking millions burst their way, Invested with immortal white, And freed from chains of mould'ring clay, Thro' death's strong bars to op'ning light!

When happy myriads with their Lord Descend betwixt the op'ning skies, And sly, at his almighty word, To meet their bodies as they rise.

Then we, who feel guilt's barbed fling, And fin's pernicious influence prove, Shall, with those rifing armies, fing The wonders of redeeming love!

then shall the broken wheels of time To vast eternity give way; While we afcend the heav'nly clime, To fpend an everlasting day.

nė!

ur.

clay, ght!

3,

No fin shall in our hearts abide; No pining wish, no anxious care, No fecret luft, no fwelling pride, No thought but love, shall harbour there.

In that bright world no cloud shall rife To wrap the heav'nly fcenes in night; No darkness vail th' eternal skies. Or shade their everlasting light.

HYMN XXI. Sevens. Christian Encouragement.

BATH ABBEY TUNE. TEMPTED fouls, arise and fing; Conquests foon your heads shall crown, lefus, our victorious King, soon shall tread the tempter down.

Soon before your joyful eyes Satan shall in chains appear, Sentenc'd (never more to rife) To the realms of dark despair, Weeping faints, a little while Banish'd from the light of day, Soon before your Saviour's smile Every shade will fly away.

Clouds may through the night endure, But the morning foon will come, When, from future clouds fecure, Zion's fun shall light you home. 0

The

D

F

Happy fouls, who read your names In your Saviour's bleeding wounds, While your love afcends in flames, While your faith and hope abounds, Shout his praifes more and more; Tell the world a Saviour's love, Till that Saviour you adore In the happy world above!

HYMN XXII.

Praise for Redeeming Love.

Murlin's Tune.

Hosannah to the God of love, Who condescended from above To bring falvation down! To lave us from eternal woe,

And raife us to a crown.

When we, in our first parents, fell from Eden to the gates of hell, And lay like captives there, Then Jefus cast a pitying eye on wretches doom'd for fin to lie For ever in despair.

His bowels, where compassion rolls, Then yearning o'er our guilty fouls, Did first for finners move.

His op'ning heart display'd our names, And issu'd forth in quenchless flames Of everlasting love.

lis majesty he laid aside, Obedient liv'd, submissive dy'd,
Our ruin'd souls to save.
The pow'rs of hell he trampled down,
In sunk, beneath his Father's frown,
From Calv'ry to the grave.

HYMN XXIII.

The fame.

How vast the sufferings who can tell,
When Jesus fought fin, death, and hell,
And was in battle flain?
How great the triumph who can fing,
When from the grave th' immortal King
Triumphant rose again?

Yet we'll attempt his name to bless
While we pass through the wilderness
To Canaan's happy shore.
But when we reach the plains above,
And every breath we draw is love,
We'll sing his glories more.

HYMN XXIV. L.M.

A Responsive Hymn.

MEN.

n

LIFT up your hearts in folemn Mys, Ye daughters of the heav'nly King.

WOMEN.

Our hearts we lift, our fongs we raife; And Jesus is the theme we sing!

MEN.

s! the glorious name revives drooping hearts when troubles rife.

WOMEN.

him the strength of Zion lives; him the pow'r of Satan dies.

MEN.

as he who hung upon the tree th pierced hands and wounded fide,

WOMEN.

eving foul, he bled for thee; thee the King of glory dy'd!

MEN.

us he dy'd, for us he rose; us, in him, are all things giv'n:

WOMEN.

own right arm fubdu'd our foes; now he reigns for us in heav'n.

вотн.

ofom is the fountain head, ch flows with everlasting love. every tongue his praise to spread, se praise employs the hosts above.

HYMN XXV. C.M.

The Grace of Christian Love.
SWINFORD TUNE.

How fweet, how heav'nly is the fight, When those that love the Lord In one another's peace delight, And so fulfil his word.

When each can feel his brother figh, And with him bear a part; When forrow flows from eye to eye, And joy from heart to heart.

When, free from envy, fcorn, and pride Our wishes all above, Each can his brother's failings hide, And shew a brother's love.

or

bui

bur

in 11 fu

ta

av'

When love, in one delightful ftream, Through every bosom flows; When union fweet, and dear esteem, In every action glows.

Love is the golden chain that binds
The happy fouls above; And he's an heir of heav'n that finds His bosom glow with love.

HYMN XXVI. L. M.

Christ the only Refuge for lost Sinners.

SINNERS, away from Sinai fly!
To Calv'ry's bloody fcene repair;
Behold the Prince of glory die,
And read your peace and pardon there!

t,

ride

9

,

Is

earch into every open wound; race the sharp scourge, the nails, the spear; and full falvation will be found a golden letters written there.

o works of man, to raife the fum br pay the ranfom, must be brought; elpless and poor to Jesus come, for strive to bring a perfect thought.

our faith, your hope, and righteoufness, to treasur'd up in him alone; our rich supplies of grace and peace ring from the works your Lord has done.

il opens her ten thousand graves fwallow those that die in sin; tall the great Emmanuel saves av'n's open gates shall welcome in. There shall the blood-wash'd armies go That trust the great Redeemer here; The plant that buds with grace below Shall ripen into glory there!

HYMN XXVII.

H

M

M

He

Th

Th

Th

His

Th Bu

Th

Of

In

On

A Soul melted with Redeeming Love.

WHEN on my beloved I gaze, So dazzling his beauties appear, His charms fo transcendantly blaze, The fight is too melting to bear!

When from my own vileness I turn To Jesus, expos'd on the tree, With shame and with wonder I burn, To think what he suffer'd for me.

My fins, oh how black they appear, When in that dear bosom they meet! Those fins were the nails and the spear That wounded his hands and his feet.

'Twas justice that wreath'd for his head The thorns that encircled it round. Thy temples, Emmanuel, bled, That mine might with glory be crown'd! The wonderful love of his heart, Where he has recorded my name, On earth can be known but in part, Heav'n only can bear the full flame.

In rivers of forrow it flow'd, And flow'd in those rivers for me; My sms are all drown'd in his blood; My soul is both happy and free.

HYMN XXVIII.

The Same.

LAMBETH TUNE.

How willing was Jefus to die, That we, fellow finners, might live! The life they could not take away How ready was Jefus to give!

They pierced his hands and his feet; His hands and his feet he refign'd; The pangs of his body were great, But greater the pangs of his mind.

11 ead

n'd!

That wrath would have kindled a hell Of never-abating despair In millions of creatures, which fell On Jesus, and spent itself there.

Ca

Divinity burst in a blaze Of vengeance on Jesus our head; Divinity's indwelling rays Sustain'd him till nature was dead.

Divinity back to his frame
The life he had yielded reftor'd,
And Jefus, entomb'd, was the fame
With Jefus in glory ador'd.

No nearer we venture than this, To gaze on a deep so profound; But tread, while we taste of the bliss, With rev'rence the hallowed ground.

HYMN XXIX. C.M.

The Christian's Company and Employment.

GREAT MILTON TUNE.

Jesus, away from earth I fly, And with thy church unite; Thy faints shall be my company, Thy presence my delight.

Thy name shall dwell upon my tongue,
Through all the heav'nly road;
Thy truth and grace shall be my song
Till I get home to God.

The wonders of thy bleeding love
For one fo vile as I Shall often draw my heart above,
And fix my thoughts on high.

Yes, in thy name I will rejoice, And triumph in thy word; In echo to my heart, my voice Shall magnify the Lord.

And may I never cease to tell
The wonders of his love,
Till heav'nly notes my bosom swell
In yonder courts above:

Till I, without a jarring found,
Thy free falvation fing,
And make those crystal walls resound
The glories of my King.

HYMN XXX.

The Conversion of a Sinner.

NORTHAMPTON TUNE.

On the brink of fiery ruin
Justice, with a flaming fword,
Was my guilty foul pursuing,
When I first beheld my Lord.

Terrify'd with Sinai's thunder, Straight I flew to Calvary; Where I faw with love and wonder Him, by faith, who dy'd for me.

Sinner,' he exclaim'd, ' I've lov'd thee

With an everlasting love;

· Justice has in me approv'd thee,

· Thou shalt dwell with me above.'

Sweet as angels' notes in heaven,
When to golden harps they found,
Is the voice of fins forgiven
To the foul by Satan bound:

Was that heav'nly voice to me,
When I faw my Lord, before me,
Bleed and die to fet me free!

Saints, attend with holy wonder!
Sinners, hear and fing his praise!
*Tis the God that holds the thunder Shews himself the God of grace!

HYMN XXXI. C.M.

An Encouraging Prospect for Believers.

GREAT MILTON TUNE.

Exalt, ye faints, the Lord your King, While time incessant moves:
Christians of grace should always sing.
For Jesus always loves.

Swift as the winged moments roll
Our feet to Canaan move;
And foon shall each enraptur'd foul
Be swallow'd up in love.

thee

Soon shall the heav'nly gates unfold.

To us their pearly leaves,

And we shall with these eyes behold.

What now our faith believes.

There shall our disembody'd fouls
With all they seek be bless'd;
And bathe, till time no longer rolls,
In undisturbed rest:

Then with our glorious Lord descend Betwixt the op'ning skies. And hear his voice the mountains rend. And see the dead arise.

C 4

V

fill

A

In

alv.

A

ea,

Oi

is l

Hi

111

W

eve

Bu

And (while in flames the wicked burn)
With bodies heav'nly fair,
Home with our Jefus we'll return,
And fing his praifes there.

HYMN XXXII. C.M.

The Soul resissing Temptation.

BANGOR TUNE.

LORD, at thy feet in dust I lie, Nor will from thence remove; For none can perish, none can die, Depending on thy love.

I plead no merits of my own,
I've trampled on thy laws;
Thy justice, Lord, might strike me dead,
But Jesus pleads my cause.

On him I cast my helples foul,
Nor Satan's malice fear;
Tho' hell's black waves against me roll,
I'll feek my refuge there.

I'll look into his wounded fide, Whence all my comforts flow; Nor shall my foul be fatisfy'd Till I my int'rest know. "I plead and pray, and never cease While Jesus lives in heav'n, ill he shall bid me go in peace, And shew my fins forgiv'n.

hen, in the face of hell and death, In weakness more than strong, alvation shall employ my breath, And grace be all my fong.

ea, though ten thousand foes I meet, Onward I still will go; is love shall make my trials sweet, His grace shall bring me through;

ill I arrive on Canaan's shore, With all the faints above, ever to sin or forrow more, But sing, and praise, and love.

1,

HYMN XXXIII. C. M. Holy Confidence.

OTFORD TUNE.

Th

To

Γi

The Life

10

And

Ve

C

no

le lis

efti

ro

When firm I fland on Zion's hill, And view my flarry crown, No pow'r on earth my hope can shake, Nor hell can pluck me down.

The lofty hills and stately tow'rs, That lift their heads so high, Shall all be levell'd in the dust; Their very names shall die.

The vaulted heav'ns shall melt away, Built by Jehovah's hands; But firmer than the heav'ns the rock Of my salvation stands.

HYMN XXXIV. S. M.
The Coming of Christ anticipated.
SILVER-STREET TUNE.

Come, lift your joyous eyes
To yonder heav'nly place, Where, freed from fin, your fouls shall in And fing redeeming grace.

hough death and hell may frown, and charge the faints with guilt; death and hell shall ne'er pull down the church which Christ has built.

To Sion's blifsful shore, As on our way we go, hile hallelujahs sound before, Tis heav'n begun below.

e, ll rif

Then cast your willows down; Lift up your hearts and fing, I Christ your heads with glory crown, And make each faint a king.

HYMN XXXV. S.M.

The fame.

RUTLAND TUNE.

s expectation fweet Ve'll wait, and fing, and pray, I Christ's triumphal car we meet, and see an endless day.

le comes! he comes! behold lis presence melts the sky! chial armies, clad in gold, round his chariot fly.

0

0

le

11

W

Th

Th

Ar

fe

Bu

Th

Th An Ih

d

But

ro

Vì

ile

Vh

He comes! the conqu'ror comes!

Death falls beneath his fword;

The joyful pris'ners burst the tombs,

And rife to meet their Lord!

The trumpet founds, 'Awake!—
'Ye dead, to judgment come!'
The pillars of creation shake
While hell receives her doom.

Thrice happy morn for those Who love the ways of peace; No night of forrow e'er shall close, Or shade, their perfect bliss.

HYMN XXXVI.

New Covenant Joy.

REJOICE, ye faints of God,
Whose undiverted feet
Still travel Zion's road
Your gracious Lord to meet;
Whose bosoms glow with holy love,
Whose hearts and hopes are fix'd above,

We are not come to gaze On Sinai's mount with awe, Or meet the angry blaze
Of God's indignant law, le round us flames of wrath divine Il their dreadful glories shine:

We are not come to hear
The thunder of that word
That fills the foul with fear,
And leaves the heart still hard;
fends the trembling wretch away hout a glimpse of heav'nly day.

But we are come to hear
The found of gospel peace,
That scatters slavish fear,
And kindles hopes of bliss;
shews our wand'ring feet the way darkness to eternal day:

But we are come to meet
The fmiles of love divine, from off the mercy's feat,
Where milder glories thine;
The God the Father waits to hear ilest finner's humble pray'r:

Where Jefus, our high-prieft, mediator stands,

re.

And wears the facred veft;
And fills his holy hands
With his vicarious facrifice,
Through which our pray'rs accepted rife.

Thence he the Spirit fends
Like a celeftial dove,
To crown his earthly friends
With honours from above;
To teach the finners how to pray,
And guide the faints in Zion's way.

Yes, we are come to join
The bright assembled throng
That, wash'd in blood divine,
Exalt th' angelic fong;
That glory in the Saviour's name,
And sing the sin-atoning Lamb.

HYMN XXXVII.
The Foretaste of Heaven.
WALWORTH TUNE.

Ti

A

m

In

Ho

Th

Do ri

hú

Alc

Wit

The

mia

let

On earth the fong begins,
In heav'n more fweet and loud,
To him that drowns our fins
In his atoning blood;
To him they cry, in rapt'rous ftrain,
Be honour, praife, and pow'r. Amen

Ye faints, on earth, repeat
What heav'n with rapture owns;
And while before his feet
The elders cast their crowns, imitate the choirs above,
tell the world your Saviour's love.

Sing as ye pass along,
With joy and wonder sing,
Till sinners learn the song,
And own your Lord their King;
converts join you as ye go,
make a growing heav'n below.

Inform the lift'ning world
How Jefus, when he fell,
The pow'rs of darknefs hurl'd Down to the deeps of hell;
rifing, bore the refcu'd prize,
thurch, in triumph through the fkies.

Alone he took the field,
Alone the battle fought;
With his own fword and fhield
The mighty work he wrought.
mighty work was all his own,
let him ever wear the crown.

i g

fa

s, hil

nd :

ou

0

To

T

pri

By

He

An

po

all y

Trom heav'n, on wings of love,
The kind Deliv'rer came,
And left the joys above
To bear our fin and fhame.
No hand but thine fuch work could do!
No heart but thine fuch love could fhew!

How bright thy glories shine,
Redeemer of our race;
Thy honours are divine,
Divine thy fov'reign grace!
The grace that tunes our mortal tongues
To found the notes which heav'n prolons

Our feeble minds are loft
Beneath the lofty strain;
But, Jordan's billows crost,
We'll catch the sound again;
In praise assist th' angelic choir,
Nor ever stop, nor ever tire.

HYMN XXXVIII. L.M.

The Courage of Faith.

My foul, unfetter'd by the skies, Or aught the fruitful earth conceals, On faith's broad wings to heav'n would? The heav'n where my Redeemer dwells. here, while the Godhead he displays brough human beauty, void of fear, i give my bosom to the blaze fall the beams which center there!

s, I would call my Jesus mine, hile feraphs 'Holy, holy,' cry; id meet the smile of love divine, ough cloth'd in peerless majesty.

nes

ildi

115.

HYMN XXXIX.

The Gift of Divine Peace.

The peace which through the ftorm Of time unshaken lives, To us unworthy worms The King of Sion gives; princely hand the gift bestows as the world—but on his foes!

By purchase and by pow'r He bought and took the prize In one tremendous hour, And bore it through the skies; how he fends it freely down all who ask the precious boc. He makes his foes his friends,
He conquers them by love;
And, with their pardon, fends
His Spirit from above;
Their peace and pardon feal'd with blood,
They run with joy the heav'nly road.

h f

ui

0

Vai Ve

Lo

WI

WI I'v

Stil

The

Lov

Let

But,

her

) m

rin

HYMN XL. L.M.

Heaven will make Amends for all.

WHILE pilgrims on this earthly ball, Our fweetest joys are ting'd with gall; The distant things, which promise rest, Prove less than nothing when possess.

Pleafure, while we purfue it, flies, And fancy'd blifs deludes our eyes; While grace bedews with many a tear The ground which fin has fown with care,

But in the glorious worlds on high No forrows fpring, no comforts die; Immortal pleafures feaft the foul, And joys in endless rivers roll.

No more the check turn'd pale with fear, The rifing fight, the falling tear; he F nimers'd no more

wilt's barbed fting, with piercing fmart, to more shall wound the trembling heart; Vash'd from our fins in Jesu's blood, we shall enjoy the peace of God.

HYMN XLI. Sevens. The Fruit of Pardoning Grace.

FEVERSHAM TUNE.

Lord, my very heart would bleed, While for pard'ning love I plead; When I think what various ways I've abus'd thy wondrous grace:

Still I fly to Jefu's veins;.
There I wash my guilty stains;
There, from my polluted foul,
All my fins like mountains roll.

Low beneath thy feet I lie; Let me live, or bid me die; But, if thou my days prolong, Shew thyfelf, in weaknefs ftrong.

may ev'ry hour to come ing me near my heav'nly home;

D 2

Near in life, and near in heart, Till my foul and fin shall part!

May I, all along the road, Follow my Redeemer, God; Ever rifing let me be Till I rife to dwell with thee.

HYMN XLII.

Di

An

Rai

TO.

And

ha lis l

ron

Vhy

Vhy

n fto

Vhy,

rom

The Dying Love of Christ. CARY'S TUNE.

WHEN I by faith my Saviour fee, And think what he has done for me, It strikes my foul with sweet surprise, And fills with tears my wond'ring eyes!— His blood was shed to set me free From everlasting misery!

On all his beauties while I gaze, And fee them in his fuff'rings blaze, My heart, like wax before the fire, Melts into love and strong defire.— His blood was shed to fet me free From everlasting misery!

Was it for me those hands were torn?
For me he suffer'd shame and scorn?

Was it my name which, written there, Drew to his heart the bloody fpear?— Was his blood fhed to fet me free From everlafting mifery?

Did Jefus hide me in his veins?
And did my fins awake those pains
Which, like a fire, through all his frame
Ravag'd in one devouring flame?
Was his blood shed to set me free from everlasting misery?

HYMN XLIII.

The Same.

Iss, Josus did resign his breath, and suffer'd all the pangs of death, that we might see his Father's face, and taste the sweets of pard'ning grace:—is blood was shed to set us free from everlasting misery!

Why did the Lord in anger frown?
Why did his Father's wrath come down a florms, to shake his spotless foul, and through his heart like waters roll?
Why, but to fet poor finners free
com everlasting misery?

ix'

and

Who

ly:

n a

T

A

Tho Has

H

W

The Will

T

H

lis'

With fuch a Saviour, fuch a King, Who can but love! who can but fing! An interceffor fo divine Makes ev'ry face with gladness shine;— Whose blood was shed to set us free From everlasting misery!

HYMN XLIV. L.M.

The Affurance of Faith.

THE Lord, whose throne is fix'd on high, The God of glory and of love, That treads the clouds beneath his feet, And rules the wondrous worlds above:

The God that built the starry roof
That over-hangs this spacious earth,
That laid the sloors of heav'n with gold,
And gave the whole creation birth:—

This God is mine, and I am his— Eternal glory to his name! Though time and nature stop their course, My God and Saviour is the same.

Though hell and fin, with all their hofts United rife, my faith to move, ix'd on this rock I stand secure, and triumph in redeeming love.

When earth and heav'n shall roll away, My soul, beyond the reach of fear, In a new heav'n shall meet her Lord, and reign for ever with him there.

HYMN XLV.

The Pilgrim's Song.

SUSSEX TUNE.

To Zion we go, the feat of our King,
And yet while below, we cannot but fing.
ho' few here efteem us, the God we adore lasdy'd to redeem us—what could he do more?

What Jefus has done, to fave us from hell; What conquests he won, when he himself fell; the depths of his forrow, the heights of his love, Will never be known till we fing them above.

Then trust in his name, and rest on his word; He's always the same unchangeable Lord; liswisdom's omniscient, his pow'r is supreme, is grace is sufficient his slock to redeem.

HYMN LXVI.

Christian Encouragement.

Lo

C

n

Lie

ata Wa

But

air

001

CH

But

Von

Con

like et hri

he

Ch

HU

Tho' foes in the way we oftentimes meet, And Satan will lay fresh snares for our feet, Our journey to Zion we still will pursue; The God we rely on is faithful and true.

Tho' we may feem fmall to those whom we fear,

Yet what are they all when Jesus is near? His grace and his Spirit for us are employ'd; His blood and his merit are both on our side

Then what shall we fear? In life and in deal His Spirit can cheer our hope and our faith: In sweet expectation we'll wait till he come; The Lord our salvation will soon fetch us home

HYMN XLVII. Sevens.

Mutual Encouragement.

BATH ABBEY TUNE.

BRETHREN, while we fojourn here, Fight we must, but should not fear; Foes we have, but we've a friend, One that loves us to the end. forward then with courage go, long we shall not dwell below; soon the joyful news will come, Child, your Father calls—Come home!

t, et,

l W

172

'd:

fide

eath

th:

me;

ome

In the way a thousand snares
Lie, to take us unawares;
Satan, with malicious art,
Watches each unguarded part:
But, from Satan's malice free, Saints shall soon victorious be;
Soon the joyful news will come,
Child, your Father calls—Come home!

one fo all the foes we meet,
lone fo oft mislead our feet,
lone betray us into sin,
ike the foes that dwell within.
let let nothing spoil your peace, thrist will also conquer these;
hen the joyful news will come,
Child, your Father calls—Come home!

HYMN XLVIII.

Hus far on our way to Zion
We through grace divine are come;

Is

ve

Sh

lid

Le

old

Ti

11

Th

11

Of

hil

fe

be

lov

And the Friend whom we rely on Soon will bid us welcome home.

Grace and truth our steps attending,
Safe we still shall walk along,
Till, our destin'd journey ending,
Truth and grace shall be our song.

Then these eyes, which now with sadde Oft in transcient clouds appear, Shall be deck'd with beams of gladness, Never more to shed a tear.

Then these hearts, which now so often Not the sharpest threats can move, Nor the sweetest words can soften, Shall be all disloy'd in love.

HYMN XLIX.

The Same.

THOUGH we're still with foes furrounded Foes that often damp our joy, Christ, who has so often wounded, Soon will ev'ry foe destroy.

He who doth will yet deliver, Till we reach the happy shore, Il we pass the gloomy river, Till we figh and weep no more.

hen the mind, whose chief employment Is to watch and conflict now, wour'd with complete enjoyment, Shall with endless rapture glow!

lid hopes like these possessing, Let us march with courage on, old through sears and dangers pressing, Till we wear the conquirer's crown:

Il we wave our palms in glory
Through the blifsful plains above;
Il we found the wondrous ftory
Of the GREAT REDEEMER'S LOVE!

en

After Prayer.
OMFORD TUNE.

bw fweet to wait upon the Lord hile he fulfils his gracious word; feek his face, and not in vain; be belov'd, and love again!

fee, while prostrate at his feet, lovah on the mercy feat;

PF

11

nd

d

hy

hat

hou

on

ur

nd

hyf

he

he rbi

f

In

ofar

To oft

Th

And Jefus, at the Lord's right hand, With his divine atonement stand!

- ' Father,' he cries, ' I will that thefe,
- · Before thee on their bended knees,
- For whom my life I once laid down,
- Be with me foon on this my throne!"

Amen, our hearts with rapture cry, May we with rev'rence look fo high! Afcended Saviour, fix our eyes By faith upon this glorious prize!

With this delightful prospect fir'd, We'll run, nor in thy ways be tir'd; And all the trials here we see Will make us long to reign with thee.

HYMN LI. L.M.

The Same.

Jesus, to thy great name we fing, And own thee our immortal King; Thy fceptre with delight obey, While with thy fword we fight our way

While life remains we look to thee For courage, strength, and liberty;

pply our wants, from thy rich store, il we are fill'd, and want no more.

nd when thy fweet, thy awful voice, death invites us to rejoice, hyfelf, O Saviour, strike the blow hat slays our last, our strongest foe!

2, n,

12

9

c.

hou didst thyself perfume the grave, nom fear of death thy faints to fave; ur fouls through Jordan's billows guide, and stem the overwhelming tide!

hyself conduct us to the land There ransom'd faints adoring stand; There bliss, a sea without a shore, orbids the blest to wish for more!

HYMN LII. C.M.

The Triumph of Faith.

Otford Tune.

In heart and tongue the fame, of annahs fing, in concord fweet, To our atoning Lamb!

oft, beyond the azure dome
That clips this pond'rous ball,

Let praise ascend, till Jesus come, And heav'n's bright curtains fall.

Yet, when each orb in yon blue skies Shall set to rise no more, More loud and sweet our songs shall rise To him we now adore.

L C

his

re

nd

for fit

nd :

it h ie i ke ith t A r]

fev th

When the bright heavins, in liquid fire, Shall melt and burn to drofs,

O'er all their ruins thall afpire

The standard of the cross.

There shall the radiant armies flock Whom Jesus calls his own, Nor tremble at the mighty shock That hurls creation down.

Firm as the everlasting hills
Remains the finner's friend;
The faith which now our bosom fills Shall there in glory end.

HYMN LIII. L. M. Christian Travellers.

NEW SABBATH TUNE.

negatives we are, to Canaan bound, or journey lies along this road; is wilderness we travel round reach the city of our God.

nd here as travellers we meet, fore we reach the fields above, ofit around our Mafter's feet, ad tell the wonders of his love.

ife

thave we feen the tempests rife; e world and Satan, hell and fin; te mountains feem'd to reach the skies ith scarce a gleam of hope between.

thill, as oft as troubles come,

I Jefus fends fome cheering ray,

I that ftrong arm shall guard us home lich thus protects us by the way.

few more days, or months, or years, this dark defert to complain, few more fighs, a few more tears, d we shall-bid adieu to pain!

HYMN LIV. L.M.

Faith feeding on Redeeming Love.

Oxford Tune.

SAVIOUR of finners, from thy death Our fpirits draw their heav'nly breath; Thy dying groans with life abound, And healing flows from ev'ry wound!

Thy forrows are a fruitful tree, Whereon rich bleffings grow for me: Thy fpotlefs life a golden mine, Where all my brightest treasures shine

Fh

1

An

N

No

ha

Pol

Vi

Dn

Wit

An

Wi

An

Th:

dy

Out of thy fulness we receive
The grace and faith by which we live;
Thy broken body is our food,
The wine we drink is thy rich blood.

Thy righteoufness is all our dress, In which, before thy Father's face, Perfect in beauty we appear, Without one spot to raise a fear.

No holiness of life or thought We know, but what thy grace has wrough And thy good Spirit makes us do Our heav'nly Father's will below. of unto us be glory, Lord, to thee, thy Spirit, and thy word;
alvation is alone of grace,
and grace alone shall have the praise!

HYMN LV. L.M.

h;

1

101

e;

١.

Admiration and Confidence.

The may I hope that, when no more there pulses beat with life below, shall the God of life adore, and all the bliss of being know!

who deferve no place but hell, No portion but devouring fire, hall I with Christ in glory dwell, cossess of all I now desire?

Will God, who never could endure In fin to look without a frown, With a kind fmile pronounce me pure, and grant me an immortal crown?—

Will Jefus own a wretch like me, and tell to faints and angels round that, when he fuffer'd on the tree, by fins augmented ev'ry wound? Will he, from life's eternal book
To earth and heav'n proclaim my name;
On me, as on his children, look,
And make my lot with theirs the fame!

Will Jefus, as my furety, place Before his Father's glorious throne Me as an heir of fov'reign grace, Me as his own adopted fon?—

Dŀ

rh

An

An

An

Eng

An

The

Wh

Vo

Vo

lut

Wh

lo.

He will!—I read it in his word, And in my heart the witness feel: I shall be with and like my Lord, Though sin oppose in league with hell!

I shall be with him when he comes Triumphant down the parting skies; And, when his voice breaks up the tomb Among his children I shall rife:—

Among his children I shall stand When quick and dead his throne surround Blest with a place at his right hand, And with immortal glory crown'd!

When all his foes beneath his feet In chains of endless torment lie, Unworthy I shall fill a feat Among the princes of the sky!

HYMN LVI. L.M.

Adoration of the Redeemer.

ESUS, thy faints affemble here Thy pow'r and goodnefs to declare; Oh may thefe happy feafons prove That we have known redeeming love!

And, while of mercies past we speak, And sing of endless joys to come, Let thy full glories on us break, And every thought give Jesus room!

ingrave thy name on ev'ry heart; and give us all, before we part, the life-reftoring joys to know Which from thy veins in rivers flow.

11

To other food may we defire, to other theme our bosoms fire,
but fov'reign, rich, redeeming love,
While here, and when we dwell above!

hine everlasting love we fing,
The fource whence all our pleasures foring;
low deep it finks, how high it flows,— losaint can tell, no angel knows!

iil

We

no

7 ion

ut ;

11 1

he

t r mí

h 10

as hea

re

eg

di

Its length and breadth no eye can trace, No thought explore the bounds of grace; Like its dear Author's name, it shines In infinite unfolded lines!

The love which faves our fouls from hell On this fide heav'n we ne'er shall tell; But, when we reach bright Canaan's plain We'll found it in immortal strains!

HYMN LVII. L.M.

Praise to the King of Zion.

King Jesus, reign for evermore Unrivall'd in the courts above; While we with all thy saints adore The wonders of redeeming love.

No other Lord but thee we'll know, No other pow'r but thine confess; We'll spread thine honours while below, And heav'n shall hear us shout thy grace

We'll fing along the heav'nly road That leads us to our blefs'd abode, Till with the vast unnumber'd throng On Zion's hill, we join our fong:— Till with pure hearts and voices fweet We cast our crowns at Jesu's feet, and sing of everlasting love meverlasting strains above.

HYMN LVIII. L.M.

lair

elow

grace

ng

The Privileges of a Citizen of Zion.

ion's the city where I dwell, mounded by the hofts of hell; it glory foon will be my home, there fin and hell can never come.

Il then among the faints below, here Jefus deigns his face to show, a me be favour'd with a place, infant in all the means of grace.

a lovely place, where first my heart as taught for baneful fin to smart! here first my eyes were brought to see at Jesus liv'd and dy'd for me!

re would I dwell, and learn to fing egrace and love of Zion's King, I afcend the heav'nly fkies, dfing his praifes as I rife—

E 3

Till in the palace where he reigns
I learn, in fweet immortal ftrains,
The wonders of that love to tell
That fav'd my foul from fin and hell!

HYMN LIX. L. M.

Sui

An Bey

He

Pro

W

Flo

AF

Y

Wh

W

Wh

T

Wit

H

The City of God on Earth.

No earthly city can compare With Zion, when her Lord is there! Her gifts like golden turrets rife; Her fervent graces melt the skies;

Her stately walls are girt with pow'r; Safety and strength compose her tow'r; Firm on a rock her palace stands, The glory of the Builder's hands.

A river, full of peace and love, For ever flowing from above, Makes her inhabitants rejoice, And tunes with praise each mourner's war.

A fruitful and a glorious train!

Their happy influence fhed abroad,
And point us to their Author—God.

faith, like an eagle from her neft, Mounts up in fearch of heav'nly reft; And love, like incense from a fire, Ascends in flames of strong desire.

Patience, that long enduring, still Submissive waits Jehovah's will; And lively hope, that lists her head Beyond the regions of the dead.

1

S VO

Here all the heav'n-born fons of grace Proclaim the King of Zion's praife, Whose precious name from ev'ry tongue Slows on in one delightful fong.

HYMN LX. C.M.

Christ's unparalleled Love.

A FRIEND there is—your voices join, Ye faints, to praife his name!— Whose truth and kindness are divine, Whose love's a constant slame.

When most we need his helping hand,
This friend is always near;
With heav'n and earth at his command,
He waits to answer prayer.

E 4

R

Sil

An

W

His

F

He

His love no end or measure knows, No change can turn its course; Immutably the same it flows From one eternal source.

When frowns appear to veil his face, And clouds furround his throne, He hides the purpose of his grace, To make it better known.

And, if our dearest comforts fall Before his fov'reign will, He never takes away our all,— Himself he gives us still!

Our forrows in the scale he weighs, And measures out our pains; The wildest storm his word obeys, His word its rage restrains.

HYMN LXI.

Submifion.

No hand can move in earth or hell Against the foul Christ loves, But as directed by his will, But as his love approves. Then let him raise his chast'ning hand, We bend beneath his rod, Resign his gifts at his command, And still adore our God!

Silent be all my anxious fears, My heart no more repine, Since Jefus in his bosom wears The flow'r that once was mine!

I'll love my Lord, and trust his word,
Though he thinks fit to frown;
And bless the hand that holds the fword
Which cuts my comforts down.

HYMN LXII. C.M.

Christ's Suffering alone.

WHEN Jefus, both of God and men, Was treated as a thief, His body felt amazing pain, His foul amazing grief.

He bore our fins; our forrows fell Like mountains on his foul; Like rifing feas he faw them fwell, Like raging billows roll.

U

M

A

W

In

Himself to friends and foes a friend, No friendly hand he found, That could the least assistance lend When dogs beset him round.

No weeping friend his bosom lent
To rest his drooping head;
With gaping wounds his sless was rent,
His wounds unpity'd bled.

Alone he stood, alone he fell,
Alone the Conqu'ror rose,
Alone he burst the bars of hell,
And trampled on his foes!

HYMN LXIII. C.M.

The Patience and Love of Christ.

CHRIST knows the heights of heav'nly bli The depths of earthly woe; Acquainted well our Jefus is With all the griefs we know.

Thrice holy Lord! in heav'n they cry,
When Jesu's praise they sing;
On earth they shouted—' Crucify!'
And mock'd the lowly King.

Alike unmov'd, he bends to wear Heav'n's praifes as his crown; Unmov'd alike, he stands to bear On earth his creatures' frown!

Meek as a lamb beneath the knife Of butchering hands he lay; And patiently refign'd the life They could not take away.

But, oh! it shook his foul with dread, And fill'd his heart with fear, When God his Father turn'd his head Against his fervent prayer!

Why, O ye faints, ye finners, why Did Jefus fuffer thus?
In heav'n they fhout—on earth they cry—
' Jefus was flain for us!'

HYMN LXIV. C.M.

Christ our Surety.

Our fins were laid upon his head; From us the burden fell: Beneath our forrows Jesus bled; And we are freed from hell! His Father's all-pervading eye,
That tries the reins and heart,
Could in his foul no blemish fee,
Yet did he make him fmart.

For, though within his holy breast No blemish could be found, With names that had the law transgress'd His heart was graven round.

I

En

His

Riv

1

His

And

1

T

And

E

If ey A

H

1

There Justice read our legal debt, And summ'd the vast amount; And Jesus plac'd, without regret, All to his own account!

The thunders of a broken law, While gath'ring o'er his head, Unshaken our Redeemer saw, Though fill'd with holy dread.

Justice, that held the flaming fword, And found his bosom bare, No drop of mercy could afford, Because our guilt was there!

HYMN LXV. C.M.

The Garden of Grace.

A GARDEN fenc'd from common earth By special fov'reign grace, Enrich'd with plants of heav'nly birth, The Church of Jesus is.

His Gospel is the open sky, His love the shining sun; Rivers of peace, which never dry, Through all this garden run.

His fpirit is the heav'nly wind That o'er this garden blows, And, op'ning each immortal mind, The Saviour's image shows.

faith, like an ivy, to the rock
That stands for ever cleaves, and through the tempest's loudest shock Eternal calm perceives.

ffurance, like a cedar, rears
Its stately branches high, eyond the reach of doubts and fears,
And blossoms in the sky.

HYMN LXVI.

The Same.

HERE love appears a fruitful vine, From Christ the bleeding root Receiving life and sap divine, And bears immortal fruit.

Humility, a lily fair,
Transplanted from on high,
Grows here, perfuming all the air
With sweets that never die.

ln.

lou

for

ho

hen

hen

Firm patience, like an aloe ftrong, By ftorms unfhaken grows, And, changing fcenes enduring long, At length in glory blows.

Here hope, a lively evergreen,
Difplays her fmiling face;
And flow'rs of ev'ry hue are feen,—
But all are plants of grace!

HYMN LXVII. L.M.

Help against the Fear of Creatures.

WHEREFORE should dark events alarm Or sharp temptations make us faint? The strength of an almighty arm Keeps and defends the weakest faint.

Yet, till this feene of action's clos'd, And we lay down the shield and fword, We must oppose and be oppos'd By those who crucify'd our Lord.

But glorious will our triumph be When the fevere engagement's done, And we, from fin and forrow free, Afcending, shout the conquest won!

HYMN LXVIII. L. M.

Encouragement against the Fear of Death.

HEN fwelling Jordan o'er us rolls, would Christ his lovely presence hide, fill it not overwhelm our souls fore we reach the Canaan side?

he knows how deep the flood may be hen we our awful fummons hear; what dark prospects we may see hen his black banners death shall rear?

larm

?

Well, should the tyrant Death display. His fiercest form when we pass o'er, Our skilful Guide knows all the way From Jordan's brink to Canaan's shore.

Yes, the Redeemer once was dead! And, when he pass'd the gloomy grave, Death's blackest waves roll'd o'er his head That we might know his pow'r to save.

11

he

nd.

m c th i y n atio

mr nev

fing

Jesus has conquer'd Death for us, When his dark mansions he pass'd through He to a bleffing turn'd the curse, And we shall triumph o'er him too.

HYMN LXIX. I.M.

The Harmony of Creation and Redemption.

From the 19th Pfalm.

The heav'ns above our heads declare Thy glory, Lord, in letters fair; With marks of thine almighty pow'r Adorning each revolving hour.

The fun, when he begins his race, The borders of thy works difplays; And, as his glories brighter shine, More plainly shows thy skill divine. hy creatures' hearts with rapture bound, hile he with fplendid fpeed goes round; and daily, as thy bounteous hand eds bleffings down on ev'ry land.

he moon, that from her azure throne night diffuses light alone, by separating skill proclaims here'er she sends her borrow'd beams.

e,

ea

re.

ugh

tion.

re

r

.

on far emit their twinkling light, pand our views of thy domain, dtell how vast, how wide thy reign.

HYMN LXX.

The fame.

ne various trees, and plants, and flow'rs, m of thy heav'n-defcending show'rs, ith fishes, birds, and beasts, unite y name thro' earth and seas to write.

ation's works, in all their forms, m rolling stars to creeping worms, never-ceasing concord join sing thy name, thy pow'r divine, But, when the dawn of heav'n we view In fallen finners born anew, When in the gospel's brighter skies We see the sun of glory rise,

No more we ask the stars to tell What Jesus only could reveal; In him at once our eyes behold More than creation ever told.

Omnipotence, in accents fage, Creation fings through every age; But Love and Justice, Truth and Grace Shine brightest in Redemption's rays, h ill

DIC

Vo

us, d li

WV

d w

Sp

afte

tha

HYMN LXXI.

The Same.

God's nature and his name we read When we behold the Saviour bleed; And, when we hear his dying groan, His shame and grief explain our own!

The lustre of the holy law,
Thus honour'd, fills our minds with a
And Calvey's scenes at once reveal More love and wrath than heav'n and

Now pure the truth that would not fpare hime equal, thine eternal heir!
Now great the love that freely gave thy fon thine enemies to fave!

hy just commands, by him obey'd, in all their beauties stand display'd; thy righteous vengeance falling there fills earth and heav'n with holy fear.

HYMN LXXII. L.M.

Christians have reason to sing.

S.

n,

m!

h at ndh

prospect of the joys above; ink, while you mourn where forrows grow, you've world of light and love!

us, the God that once came down, dliv'd a man of forrows here, w wears in heav'n th' imperial crown, d waits to bid us welcome there.

d, ere we reach the happy fhore, spirit condescends to bring laste, to make us long for more, that which makes the angels sing. And, if the earnest of his love We find, while yet on earth so sweet, What must the full possession prove When round his glorious throne we meet

When with immortal eyes we gaze On the full glories of our God, As in Emmanuel's face they blaze, And fill with light the bleft abode!

HYMN LXXIII. L.M.

b

C

nd

ek do

ch

do

11 liv

en

ind

th

'll a

e h ey'l

The Same.

Way should the saints be fill'd with dread, Or yield their joys to slavish fear? Heav'n can't be full, which holds the Head Till ev'ry member's present there!

In heav'n the Head—the members here— Ten thousand thousand, yet but one! So far afunder, yet so near! Some yet unborn—some round the throne!

How bright eternal wisdom shines When it displays eternal love, Instructing by those dazzling lines The earth beneath and heav'n above!

HYMN LXXIV. L. M.

A Christian Welcome.

ELCOME, dear brethren, to this place? banish'd ev'ry slavish fear! come to seek Emmanuel's face,— ad he has promis'd to be here.

k him in pray'r—he'll furely come do us good before we part; ch humble breaft he'll make his home, d dwell in ev'ry waiting heart.

Il come with all his gracious train lively graces bright and ftrong; en shall the Lamb for finners slain and loud and fweet from ev'ry tongue.

then be earnest, take no nay, 'll answer ev'ry good desire; thim your hearts—though cold as clay, ty'll melt like wax before the fire!

HYMN LXXV.

Ai

ok

A

Of

nti

W ill

An

t h

(

1

nd :

Christians, look bomeward.

DRAW near, O ye bleffed, and help metof.
The treasures for you laid in store,
When at last you shall meet your dear She herd and King,

To weep in this defert no more.

Oh think with what rapt'rous shouts well

To join with the glorified choirs, When Jefu's bright chariot appears in the ki And death at his coming expires!

When 'Come, O ye bleffed,' founds fweet our ears,

By love everlasting exprest,

What place will be found for our doubts a our fears

In fight of the mansion of rest?

No more shall the wicked our comforts and Nor conscience from guilt feel a wound; No tree of temptation, our peace to destroy Shall in the bleft region be found.

paffions, unholy, our bosoms shall move To taint the fair mansions with strife: ar Shepherd shall feed us on pastures of love, And lead us to fountains of life.

ok up, ye dejected, that weep as ye go, And complain that no comfort ye prove; If down your fad willows, and fing while below

Of the blifs that awaits you above.

tof

She

e ft fki

reet

ts a

nd;

when forrows all round you appear;
ill firew all the road to mount Sion with flowers,
And fmooth the rough path-way of care.

HYMN LXXVI.

Praise to the Redeemer.

St. John's Tune.

Hosannah to his name
Who bore our fin and shame, theaven and earth resound his praise;
Come all ye fons of God,
Redeem'd by precious blood, ad shouts of holy triumph raise.

To his great name alone
Who fits upon the throne,
And wears redemption's beauteous crows;
Let endless praises rise
From all below the skies,
From all to whom his name is known.

He dy'd to fave his foes,
His love no limits knows,
And let his praifes know no bounds;
Sing, ranfom'd finners, fing,
Extol your God and King,
Till universe his praife resounds.

Sing what you can't explain,
Sing of a Saviour flain,
A Saviour flain for finners vile;
Sing of your bleft abode,
Sing of your fmiling God,
Your God that will for ever fmile?

Ind

Sing of that holy light
Beyond expression bright,
The Morning Star of heav'nly day;
The Sun of Righteousness
That fills the church with grace,
Will all his beams in heaven display.

HYMN LXXVII.

Heaven.

THEN we shall fee and know What can't be known below, or glory centers in his name;
No night's approach they fear,
They need no candle there,
she light of heav'n is God the Lamb.

He shines with beams of love
On all the faints above, and all the faints with glory shine;
From him the angels bright,
Those happy sons of light,
are fill'd with life and love divine.

No temple built with hands
In that bright region stands, od is their palace, and their home:
With perfect pleasure blest,
In him the foul finds rest or all eternity to come.

ft

no

Sing, ranfom'd finners, fing,
Extol your God and King,
While on your way to heav'n ye go;
You'll never cease in heav'n
To fing of fins forgiv'n,
And what should check your fong below?

Though dangers by the way
May fill us with difmay,
Our Saviour God remains the fame;
Salvation full and free,
We still in him shall fee,
Oft as by faith we read his name.

HYMN LXXVIII.

Christian Gratitude.

ST. JOHN'S TUNE.

Why do the faints rejoice
With lifted heart and voice,
And fill the air with fhouts of praise?
Because the Son of God
Has bought them with his blood,
And fanctifies them by his grace.

The very stones would cry,
And lift their voice on high,
or God could give them hearts and tongues,
To shame the ransom'd race,
The blood-bought sons of grace,
sthey should cease their thankful songs.

Did Jefus die for me?
Shall I his glory fee?
Ind shall I cease to fing his name?
No; should my guilty tongue Refuse to join that fong, ilence would cover me with shame.

Oh could I learn to fing
Of my exalted King
Is they who fee him fing in heav'n,
How would my heart and voice,
In praifing him, rejoice!—
If heart and voice for this were given.

Sinners, come taste his grace,
Then you will learn his praise,
or all who know him bless his name;
Think what he bore for you,
Then will you love him too,
Whose love is one eternal flame.

HYMN LXXIX.

Christian Profession.

ST. JOHN'S TUNE.

nd

H

th

A

T

dc

How pleafant is the gate
Where willing converts wait
For fellowship with Zion here;
Where they with wonder tell How they escap'd from hell,
And hope in glory to appear.

With wonder we attend
While they the finners' Friend
With tears of holy joy extol;
Each heart, once hard as steel,
Now made for fin to feel,
Bears tokens of a ransom'd foul.

No more of felf they boaft,
They humbly own the coft
Of their falvation freely paid;
The fins which make them groan,
And must have funk them down,
They now behold on Jesus laid.

No place to them fo fweet
As Mary's at his feet, music equal to his name;
No doctrine they approve
But his redeeming love, hich freely bore their sin and shame.

In him the law they view,
And the fweet gospel too;
ith humble hope and holy fear,
Through his atoning blood,
They now draw nigh to God, ad his bright wedding garment wear.

HYMN LXXX.

The fame.

To Him alone they fing;
Him, as their Lord and King,
th shouts of holy joy, they own;
And oh! how oft they long
To join the heav'nly song, icast their crowns before his throne.

The fouls that tafte his grace
Defire to fee his face,
In whom they fee their fins forgiv'n;
With Jefus they would dwell,
Who faves their fouls from hell,
And marks with blood their path to heaven,

He calls them to the skies,
He says, 'My love, arise,
'Make haste, and leave the world behind.'
When once they hear his voice,
They tremble and rejoice,
Astonish'd that he speaks so kind!

nd

hat W T

Tir'd of the world and fin,
Their journey they begin,
And every let and hind'rance fear;
To heaven, without delay,
They fain would wing their way,
Because no fin or forrow's there.

HYMN LXXXI.

Christian Prospect.

'Trs heaven begun below
To hear Christ's praises flow,
I Zion, where his name is known;
What will it be above
To fing redeeming love,
Indicast our crowns before his throne?

When we adore him there
We shall be void of fear, or faith, nor hope, nor patience, need;
Love will absorb us quite,
Love, in the midst of light,
a God's eternal love shall feed.

Oh! what fweet company
We then shall hear and see,
hat harmony will there abound,
When souls unnumber'd fing
The praise of Zion's King, or one differenting voice is found!

M

A

Tha

Fre

nce An

hil

I'll hal

Wh

AT

Ye f

ce f

Chat

With everlafting joy,
Such as will never cloy,
We shall be fill'd, nor wish for more;
Bright as meridian day,
Calm as the evening ray,
Full as a fea without a shore.

Till that bleft period come Zion shall be my home;
And may I never thence remove Till from the church below
To heaven at once I go,
And there commune in perfect love.

HYMN LXXXII. C.M.

Triumph over Death.

THYATIRA TUNE.

O DEATH, where is thy cruel fting Which us'd to wound my heart? Since I beheld my dying King I've loft that venom'd fmart.

The King of grace and glory dy'd, And dy'd to ranfom me; Thy pow'r to kill he then defy'd, And gain'd the victory. can furvey the gloomy grave, And no dark horrors feel, ince Christ descended there to save His faints from death and hell.

grave, where is thy victory!
What conquest hast thou made,
ace my Redeemer conquer'd thee,
And thou was't captive led?

That ranfom'd foul hast thou detain'd from its eternal rest, are Christ the victory obtain'd, And thy dominion ceas'd?

hile I can boaft of Jefus flain I'll triumph over thee; hall not in thy pow'r remain When thou art fent for me.

HYMN LXXXIII. C.M.

Comfort under Loss of Friends.

Ye faints, why should ye weep? ce fesus tells you in his word, that death, in him, is sleep.

Are your dear friends or kindred gone To fing before the throne? And are you left on earth to mourn,

To mourn your lofs alone?

Weep for your lofs, but not for them, Nor mourn your lofs too long; Their place and yours will be the fame 'Midft you celestial throng.

1

eho

La

efo

0 efor

Sur

rbi Ou

Linj

Your loss is their eternal gain, And all things work for good While we rejoice in Jesus slain, And humbly walk with God.

The Lord will wipe the tears away Of those who weep for fin; And forrow, fadness, or difmay, Will not in heav'n be feen.

The faints, who mourn the heavy lofs Of dear relations gone, Though they on earth endure the cross, In heav'n shall wear the crown.

Soon on the everlafting plains Our golden harps will found To high, celeftial, thankful strains, Through one eternal round.

HYMN LXXXIV.

Praise for Electing Love.

WREATH'S TUNE*.

Great fountain of eternal love,
Glongs the everlasting praise
That finners hope to dwell above.

o. Praise ye the Lord—the Saviour praise,
Hosanna to the God of Grace.

chovah Jesus, just and wise, Laid the foundation of our peace
efore he spread the azure skies,
Or form'd the earth, or fill'd the seas.
Praise ye the Lord, &c.

ofs

ofs,

efore his all-creating voice Supply'd the fun and moon with light, thid the nofts of heav'n rejoice, Our fouls were precious in his fight. Praife ye the Lord, &c.

the Hymns written to fult Wreath's Tune, will go long-measure Tune, by leaving out the choius. He fix'd his children's future lot
When first he drew creation's plan,
Rejoicing in each favour'd spot
Where he would dwell with fallen man.
Cho. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

Jefus, with high delight, furvey'd,
On the vast map before his eye,
The place where he has fince display'd
The great incarnate mystery.
Cho. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

HYMN LXXXV.

The fame.

Pra

ho.

Prai

Aı

How free, how glorious was the grace,
How wonderful the fov'reign love,
That choic our fouls, our time, and place,
Before he bade the planets move.

Cho. Praife the Lord—the Saviour praife, Hofanna to the God of Grace.

No claim had we, who now enjoy. The fmiles of our redeeming God: He only knows that chose us, why Our hearts are his divine abode. Cho. Prafe ye the Lord, &c.

If we appear before his throne
When he shall call our spirits hence,
We must be fav'd by grace alone,
For who can help Omnipotence?
tho, Praise ye the Lord, &c.

HYMN LXXXVI.

Praise for Redemption.

WREATH'S TUNE.

Praise your Redeemer, praise his name,
Ye saints, who live upon his grace;
Praise Him whose love remains the same
Through every change of time and place.
The Praise ye the Lord—the Saviour praise,
Hosanna to the God of Grace.

e,

ace,

,

Praise Him who opens mercy's door
To welcome every feeking foul;
Who gives falvation to the poor,
And makes the wounded confcience whole.
Do. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

Praise HIM who came from heav'n, to brin Glad tidings of falvation down: Praise HIM, for you have cause to fing, Who hope for an immortal crown.

Cho. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

Praife HIM who lov'd you when you lav In bondage under Satan's pow'r; Who dy'd, your ranfom price to pay, And fpoil'd your foes in that fame hour. Cho. Praife ye the Lord, &c.

WI

ta The 0.

ife

His

er h Unli

e ev Bene e va And 0, 7

Praise HIM who lov'd you on the cross, Praife HIM who loves you on his throng Praise HIM who turns to gain your loss, And makes your croffes prove your crown Cho. Praife ye the Lord, &c.

Praise HIM who lov'd you long before The wheels of time began to move; Whose love, when time shall be no more, Will fill be everlafting love.

Cho. Praife ye the Lord, &c.

HYMN LXXXVII.

The Divinity and Mediation of Christ.

WREATH'S TUNE.

av

ur.

rone

Sy OWI

ore,

Who reigns by right, and rules by love; tall the faints his glory fing, The faints below and faints above.

o. To Him that lives, but once was flain, Be bonour, power, and praise. Amen.

ife Him who fits upon his throne, disthrone of glory and of grace; rheav'n and earth he reigns alone, Unlimited by time or place.

o. To Him that lives, &c.

eeverlasting mountains bend deneath his glorious awful feet; evallies where he walks afcend, and every step obedient meet. o. To Him that lives, &c.

F

And

To Cho.

His s

Et

And W Cho.

The f In Caft a An

No hand against his will can rife. No heart against his love can stand: No place is fecret from his eyes. Not heaven, nor hell, nor fea, nor land Cho. To Him that lives, &c.

What he defires to do, is done: The awful mandate of his will. That moves the universe alone, Can make the universe stand still. Cho. To Him that lives, &c.

His fmile is heav'n-his frown is hell. His dreadful vengeance breaks his foes: His favour is the living well From which complete falvation flows.

Cho. To Him that lives, &c.

HYMN LXXXVIII.

The Same.

WREATH'S TUNE.

The hofts of heav'n, at Christ's command,

Fly through the air, or walk the earth;

And round the church, like watchmen stand,

To guard the men of heavenly birth.

Cho. To Him that lives, but once was slain,

Be bonour, power, and praise. Amen.

is glory fills eternity,

Eternity which was, and is;

and all eternity to come

Will shine with his immortal praise.

To Him that lives, &c.

he faints, which stand before his throne, In holy robes of spotless white, last at his feet their glories down, And bend to his imperial right. ho. To Him that lives, &c.

o H

An

Tho

An

ho.

H

Wh

o rai

And

10.

Hi

In i

And

10.

Hi

Sen

hic

And

Angels and feraphs all attend
As ministers to do his will,
With rev'rence and submission bend;
All heav'n, when Jesus speaks, is still.
Cho. To Him who lives, &c.

And when he stops, all heaven resounds
With his high praise and matchless love;
Angels and faints with blissful sounds
Fill all the happy plains above.
Cho. To Him that lives, &c.

HYMN LXXXIX.

The Subject continued.

To Him they shout—to him alone!
Who bears eternal glory's weight,
Who fills the high celestial throne,
And honours that thrice holy seat.
Cho. To Him that lives, but once was slain,
Be bonour, power, and praise. Amen.

To Him who lov'd, and liv'd, and dy'd,
And triumph'd o'er the pow'r of death;
To Him whose wounded hands and side
Add music to celestial breath.
Cho. To Himshat lives, &c.

o Him who bore our fins away,
And wash'd our guilty fouls with blood;
ho taught our feet the heav'nly way,
And makes us kings and priests to God.
ho. To Him that lives, &c.

oHim who fent his spirit down,
When we were sinners once on earth,
oraise us to an heav'nly crown,
And give our souls celestial birth.
o. To Him that lives, &c.

him who thines before our eyes In robes of uncreated light; hose glories ever on us rife, And fill us with supreme delight.

To Him that lives, &c.

Him whose everlasting love Sent forth those precious streams of grace, hich made us long to dwell above, And led us to this blissful place. to. To Him that lives, &c.

HYMN XC.

Praise for Salvation.

Ina

And

fce

On

1

WREATH'S TUNE.

PRAISE ye the Lord, let finners praise
The Saviour's great and glorious name;
Let every heart that feels his grace,
His mercy, love, and truth, proclaim.
Cho. Praise ye the Lord—the Saviour praise,
Hosanna to the God of Grace.

Praife Him who lov'd and pity'd you
When you no love or pity fought;
Who pay'd your price to justice due,
When you had fold yourselves for nought
Cho. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

Praise him who sends his spirit down To shew you all your fins forgiv'n, To mark and seal you for his own, And fit you by his grace for heav'n. Cho. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

aife Him whose everlasting love springs like a fountain in the foul; ad will, when time thall cease to move, Inan unbounded ocean roll.

b. Praise ye the Lord, &c.

any, eternal as his throne,

And wide as his most righteous reign,

seemed in show'rs of blessing down

On all for whom the Lamb was slain.

On Praise ye the Lord, &c.

HYMN XCI. S.M.

ife,

Death and Resurrection.

WORKSWORTH TUNE.

Come, faints, and view the grave, The grave where Jefus lay; here Jefus conquer'd death, to fave Our flesh, which was his prey.

Why should we start aside, Or feel such rising gloom? we, when the great Redeemer dy'd, He sanctify'd the tomb.

0

W

ur fo

A

A

hin

T

Pr

A

aife

0

Pr

Fr

hin

W

Pi Bi e gr

That still and quiet bed
In which our flesh must rest,
Will hear the voice which wakes the dead;
Our flesh will then be blest.

And when we drop our clay, Our fouls will mount on high, And wing the bright celestial way That leads to endless joy.

When Jefus comes again
To wake the fleeping dead,
He'll bring us in his glorious train,
To their last conquest led.

When we our bodies fee
With our immortal eyes,
How joyful will our fpirits be
To meet them as they rife!

And when the pearly gates
To welcome him extend,
We shall march through the heav'nly states
With our immortal Friend.

HYMN XCII. S.M.

Heaven.

RUTLAND TUNE.

OWHAT a wedding day
Will that bright morning bring!
If pirits married to this clay,
And both to Zion's King!

Angels will shout aloud, And we with joy shall fing; him that wash'd us in his blood, This perfect praise we bring.

Praise for our bodies rais'd, And with our souls made one; ife for our twofold nature, plac'd On Christ's immortal throne.

Praise for the conquest won From sin, from death, and hell, him that sits upon the throne, Who has done all things well.

Praise for the conquest gain'd

By faith in Jesu's blood;

egrace which has our spirits train'd

For fellowship with God.

Wh

But

We

We

The

The

And

AIS

t ev

dem

0. 3

L

us h fav

d br

Cho.

Praise for the prospect sure
Of endless joy and peace,
And light, and life, and love as pure
As God the Fountain is.

HYMN XCIII.

Praise to the Redeemer.

WREATH'S TUNE.

Come, ye that fear and love the Lord, And magnify his glorious name; His name is through all heav'n ador'd, Let faints on earth adore the fame.

Cho. To bim that lives, but once was flain, Be bonour, pow'r, and praise. Amen.

His honours shine within no bounds, Though they are brightest seen above; The universe his praise resounds, And heav'n and earth proclaim his love.

Of all the works his hands have made Well may our fouls adore him most; On him our fins and guilt were laid, In GOD THE SAVIOUR we will book.

Nor will our boafting e'er be vain While he's the object of our trust; For all, for whom the Lamb was slain, Shall rife and praise him from the dust. Proclaim his praife with mortal breath while here you live on his rich grace; But when we triumph over death We'll crown him with immortal praife.

Well, he hath faid—there stands our hope, The glorious trumpet foon will found; Then we shall leave the dusky globe, and praise him on celestial ground.

HYMN XCIV.

The Dawn of the Latter-Day Glory.

WREATH'S TUNE.

tevery nation join the fong; tethanks for your Creator's finiles, demption will not tarry long. 0. Shout! for the Lord the Saviour's come; Let all the nations make him room.

e.

A.

us his glorious march begins, ore him loud hosannas sound, save his people from their sins, dbreak the chains that bind them round, tho. Sbout! &c.

NI

ou'l

he p en t heir

efp

his

Cho

efore ke a ith

ho

Cho

is co four illio

ith 1

Cho

His chariot wheels of living fire Fly through the heavins, and burn their wa Through all that checks his grand defire To fpread the light of heavinly day.

Cho. Shout! &c.

Array'd in robes of morning light,
The glorious Conqu'rer fits on high;
And 'King of kings,' by fov'reign right,
And 'Lord of lords,' adorns his thigh.

Cho. Shout! &c.,

The glorious rainbow round his head Mercy and truth at once difplays; And peace and justice round him spread Their radiant arms in close embrace.

Cho. Shout! &c.

Omnipotence is his bright bow,
His Father's will employs his hand;
His polith'd shafts of love strike through
The fouls to endless life ordain'd.
Cho. Shout! &c.

But when his mighty bow he draws To make his perfecutors fmart, Those rebels that despise his laws Shall feel his arrows in their heart. Cho. Shout! &c.

HYMN XCV.

The fame.

exp, finners, bend, or you must break, will fing in heav'n, or groan in hell; of earth and hell combin'd can check the pow'r of Christ's all-conqu'ring will.

10. Shout! for the Lord the Saviour's come; Let all the nations make him room.

nthousand thunders filenc'd, hide heir dying founds before his voice; espeaks of peace, and empires wide, this all-cheering word rejoice. Cho. Shout! &c.

fore him free falvation flows, ke a broad river full and strong, ith crystal streams of life, for those ho worthip as he rides along. Cho. Shout! &c.

scountenance exceeds the blaze four most splendid noon-day sun; illions of dazzled seraphs gaze ith rev'rence while he shines alone. Cho. Shout! &c.

is l

lith

o h Ch

ore

he I fea

yon Cho

fati à fti

d w fai

Cho.

LDI from

r Re ow h

The Sun of Righteoufness, he shines The light and life of heav'n and earth; His beams create celeftial mines, And give celestial millions birth. Cho. Shout! &c.

By him they live, to him they fing, From him they look for life to come; The church obeys him as her King, The church enjoys him as her Home. Cho. Shout! &c.

HYMN

The fame.

Life, light, and love, and liberty, Flow from the great Redeemer's reign; He fets the captive nations free, Nevel to wear their chains again. Cho. Shout! for the Lord the Saviour's come; Let all the nations make himroom.

His laws are perfect righteoufnefs, And perfect peace, and perfect love; By thefe he rules the fons of gace, By thefe he rules the realms above. Cho. Shout! &c.

egives the pow'r, and gives the will, is holy precepts to obey; Ith patience, faith, and hope, and zeal, whelp his pilgrims on their way. Cho. Shout! &c.

ore than the fons of grace can ask the King of Zion can bestow; the search his riches were a task yound what heav'n and earth could do. Cho. Shout! &c.

fatisfies the longing foul, a fail creates it new defire; d while eternal ages roll staints will after him aspire. The Shout! &c.

me;

HYMN XCVII. Sevens.

Believers' Baptifm.

IDREN of the King of grace, from earth to heav'n ye go, r Redeemer's footsteps trace, ow him in all ye do.

Since your Lord in Jordan once Was baptiz'd to lead the way, Every human rite renounce, And his voice with joy obey.

His fweet presence you will find Shining on you as ye go; Cast your fears and cares behind; Trust him, he will bring you through.

You are buried with the Lord, In the Lord you rife again; Now you live upon his word, Who, to ranfom you, was flain.

Hear the voice which speaks from heav'n,
If ye love me, keep my ways.'
You that feel your fins forgiv'n,
Can you slight the God of grace?

Grea

Rofe Triu

Our :

and

Mighty Saviour, we obey
Thine august commanding voice;
Thou hast taught our feet the way,
In thy fanction we rejoice.

On thy promife we rely, Hear us from thy lofty throne, Shine upon us from on high, Bless and feal us as thy own.

HYMN XCVIII.

The Same.

WALWORTH TUNE.

CELESTIAL dove, descend,
And seal us as thy own!
While we the will attend
Of him that fills the throne;
Descend, and bless thy sons on earth,
Great Author of celestial birth.

Thou didst with glory crown
The Great Redeemer's head,
When he (submissive down
In Jordan's billows laid)
Rose up, to thew how he would rife Iniumphant through th' eternal skies.

n,

Blefs us, O Lord, with light,
With heav'nly light and love,
While through this facred rite
With willing hearts we move;
Our spirits with thy glory crown,
and blefs us, Lord, as we go down.

Be

Fo

Bel

An

Con You

To f

for

And as we rife again
Above the pliant wave,
Let thoughts of Jefus flain,
And rifing up to fave,
Raife us on wings of faith and love
To his delightful feat above.

And may our future life,
Holy and without blame,
With fin and hell at ftrife,
Put fin and hell to fhame;
Till we triumphant o'er them rife,
And dwell in thy celeftial fkies.

HYMN XCIX.

Before Baptizing.

RESURRECTION TUNE.

THE Lord himfelf of life
Hath taught our fouls this way;
And why thould human strife
Teach us to disobey?
When he went up from Jordan's slood,
There met in one the Triune God.

What God himself approves,
Who can or dare deny?
Come, every foul that loves
At Jesu's feet to lie,
Before his throne perform his will,
For there he sits commanding still.

Till time itself shall end,
I am, he fays, with you;
Your faithful God and Friend,
Still to my promise true:
Believe my word, obey my voice,
And you shall in my ways rejoice.

Hear then, ye ranfom'd sheep,
Your Shepherd speaks from heav'n;
And his commandment keep
By whom your sin's forgiv'n:
Constrain'd by his redeeming love,
Your love to your Redeemer prove.

You bear his facred name,
And glory in his grace;
And can you think it fhame
To walk in all his ways?
To follow him who leads your way
To regions of eternal day?

HYMN C.

After Baptizing.

ST. JOHN'S TUNE.

We blefs th' eternal Three, The facred Trinity, The Father, Son, and Spirit's name; The Son went thro' the flood, The Father spake aloud, And down the Holy Spirit came.

When Jefus had obey'd,
The voice from glory faid,
This is my own Beloved Son,
In whom I am well pleas'd.'
The Spirit then made hafte,
With glory Jefu's head to crown.

How honourable then,
Ye rantom'd fons of men,
Is this delightful ordinance!
Who can withftand the pow'r
Of him we all adore,
When all his voices fpeak at once?

Obedience fpake in Chrift
When Jefus was baptiz'd;
Approving and applauding love
The Father's voice exprefs'd;
The Spirit him confefs'd,
Descending on him like a dove.

HYMN CI.

Christ the Believer's Example in Baptism.

How full of truth and grace
Are all the Saviour's ways!
What he commanded men to do,
Himfelf he did perform;
With zeal his heart was warm
While the cold river he pass'd through.

'It well becometh us
'To be baptized thus,
'And to fulfil all righteourners;'
There words the Saviour faid,
And in their native bed
The waters did their Lord embrace.

This was a transient grave;
But when he dy'd to fave,
He was baptiz'd in wrath divine:
Fire, guilt, and grief, and blood,
Compos'd the awful flood Which overwhelm'd the Saviour then!

None but himfelf could bear
What Jefus fuffer'd there,
His foul thro'death's dark waves funk down
But he from thence arofe,
And triumph'd o'er his foes,
And wears in heav'n the conqu'ror's crown

TH

Den

A re

But

Cho

Prai

n J

sp

Vho

Ch

hat he had nd Ch

But no fuch work for you,
Ye faints, remains to do,
The emblem only you can bear;
Yet, fince by this you may
Your love to Christ display, Honour the facred name ye wear.

HYMN CII.

Praise for Grace and Glory.

WREATH'S TUNE.

THE Lord, that grace and glory gives,
Demands a revenue of praife;
A revenue from all that lives,
But most from subjects of his grace.
Cho. Sing to the Lord—the Lord alone,
For grace and glory are his own.

raife rifing up from hearts incere in Jefu's all-prevailing name, s pleafing in Jehovah's ear, Whose spirit fans the grateful flame, Cho. Sing to the Lord, &c.

wn

him we owe the hope we have hat our transgressions are forgiv'n; he hope of rising from the grave, and dwelling with the Lord in heav'n. Cho. Sing to the Lord, &c. When we in nature's ruins lay, And God's just law pronounc'd us dead, Emmanuel bore our guilt away; The just to fave, the unjust bled. Cho. Sing to the Lord, &c.

The

nd

ffu

ur

ref or c

nd

The

nd is a erfu

8H 1

Wh

Nec

Foll

You

On He'l

And when we first believ'd the word,
And fied for refuge to his Son,
'Twas the good Spirit of the Lord
That made the joyful tidings known.
Cho. Sing to the Lord, &c.

HYMN CIII. L. M.

The Comforter and Advocate.

WHEN fome fweet promife warms our hear And cheers us under heavy care, It is the Spirit's gracious part To take that word and fix it there.

'Twas he that turn'd our hearts away From love of fin and hateful strife; His all-creating beams display The dawn of everlasting life. is he that brings us comfort down hen we complain and mourn for fin;
nd, while he shews our heav'nly crown, flures us fin no more shall reign.

ur great High Priest before the throne resents the merits of his blood; or our acceptance pleads his own, and proves our cause completely good.

then prayer or praise attempt to rise, and fain would reach Jehovah's ear, is all-prevailing facrifice assumes and makes it welcome there.

HYMN CIV. Sevens.

Christ the Good Shepherd.

SHEEP of Christ's redeemed fold, When their Shepherd calls them near, Need not of his voice be told, None but Christ can make them hear,

Iollow me, the Saviour cries, You on pastures green shall feed; On your Shepherd fix your eyes, We'll supply your ev'ry need.

n p or fe

Iv f

The

he i

ch

nd .

Vith e w

he v

hy

nd he can om

hen

y ho he K

his h igels that r wi

aid

Down they fit beneath his feet, Soon as once they hear his voice; All he fays is mufic fweet, All he wills becomes their choice.

He has mark'd them ev'ry one With his own eternal name; Though they wander up and down, Still his care remains the fame.

While the wolf, with wishful eye, Overlooks the midnight fold, Ifr'el's Shepherd's always nigh, Nor of one will loofe his hold.

In the dark and cloudy day, When the under shepherds faint, Jesus marks the wand'rer's way, Watchful over every faint.

HYMN CV.

Christian Contentment.

Though ease and plenty, fruits of wealth, And all the means of life and health, And sweet convenience, please us; poverty, which most we dread, Without a house above my head, Infeathers to make soft my bed, My soul could rest in Jesus.

Then he came down from heav'n to earth, he manger was his place of birth, chamber was denied him; and when, to do his Father's will, which loving kindness, pow'r, and skill, ewent about, quite lowly still, he women's hands supplied him.

hy then should I, who taste his grace, and hope in heaven to see his face, careful for the present? from shall have enough at home, om him who now affords me some; then death, to move my goods, shall come, shouse will then be pleasant.

te King himfelf I shall behold, ray'd in robes of purest gold, is hope my spirit raises; gels and faints, for company, that blest mansion I shall see; rwill they be asham'd of me aid them in his praises!

HYMN CVI.

1

F

li

Co

W

Co

Co

Ye

For

Wh

Hoy

To

Con From

Till

Wit

Anticipation of Heaven.

On, how the thought that I shall know
The man that suffer'd here below
To manifest his favour,
For me, and those whom most I love;
Or here, or with himself above,
Does my delighted passions move
At that sweet word, for ever!

For ever to behold him shine,
For ever more to call him mine,
And see him still before me!
For ever on his face to gaze,
And meet his full assembled rays,
While all the FATHER he displays
To all the saints in glory!

Not all things else are half so dear As his delightful presence here, What must it be in heav'n! 'Tis heav'n on earth to hear him say, As now I journey, day by day, 'Poor sinner, cast thy fears away,

. Thy fins are all forgiv'n.'

But how must his celestial voice Make my enraptur'd heart rejoice, When I in glory hear him; While I, before the heav'nly gate, For everlasting entrance wait, And Jesus, on his throne of state, Invites me to come near him!

Come in, thou bleffed, fit by me,
With my own life I ranfom'd thee;
Come taste my perfect favour;
Come in, thou happy spirit, come,
Thou now shalt dwell with me at home;
Ye blissful mansions, make him room,
For he must stay for ever.

When Jefus thus invites me in,
How will the heavenly hofts begin
To own their new relation;
Come in! come in! the blifsful found
From every tongue will echo round,
Till all the cryftal walls refound
With joy for my falvation.

HYMN CVII. L.M.

Praise to the Redeemer for conquering Death,

DEATH has no fting to pierce the foul That now by faith to Jefus files; He can the pow'rs of hell control, And bid the fleeping dead arife.

His own almighty arm can fhake Those gloomy vaults and mansions down, At which the sons of Adam quake, And raise their tenants to a crown.

W

W

Fill

Then fear not death, but fear the Lord, And look to him for victory; For those who tremble at his word Shall his immortal glory see.

His promife is for ever fure, And he hath faid that death shall die: His word for ever must endure; His word, that fills eternity.

Rejoice, ye faints that fear his name, Rejoice in his eternal might! For he has put your foes to shame, To shame and everlasting flight. Rejoice in Him, for he will come, in all the beauty of his love, And take his church, from conflict, home To everlasting joys above.

HYMN CVIII. S.M.

The confiraining Motive to Praife.

CHARITY TUNE.

Who can forbear to fing, Who can refuse to praise, When Zion's high celestial King His faving pow'r displays?

When finners at his feet,
By mercy conquered, fall;
When grace, and truth, and justice, meet,
And peace unites them all?

When that terrific law
Which, from the blazing mount,
Fill'd Ifr'el's trembling camp with awe,
Shews a difcharg'd account?

When the fweet gofpel found,
The filver trump of heav'n,
Proclaims, to contrite fouls around,
That all their fin's forgiv'n?

When heav'n's expanding gates Invite the pilgrims' feet,
And Jefus, at their entrance, waits
To place them on his feat?

Who can forbear to praise
Our high celestial King,
When sov'reign, rich, redeeming grace,
Invites our tongues to sing?

Shortly will be published,

By the Author of WALWORTH HYMNS

The Second Edition of

EXPERIMENTAL ESSAYS,

T

ofp

Hol

lou alcı

ne

bje

With feveral additions (omitting only the Hymns, and one piece of Profe, which are contained in this Volume), on the fame fix and paper as this; which may be had, bout in one volume with the Hymns, by those where give orders for them.

By the desire of our own Deacons, and some others of the Church which I have the honour, under Christ, to feed; and also by the hope of doing good to my fellow Christians, and so serving my best and only Master; I am prevailed on to subjoin to Walworth Hymns the following thoughts on Church Fellowship and Social Religion in general.

A SHORT ESSAY

ON

CHURCH FELLOWSHIP AND SOCIAL RELIGION.

THE highest and sweetest of all human felowship, out of heaven, is the fellowship of a pspel church formed after the model of the holy Scriptures: the ordinances of God's souse, and the means of grace in general, are alculated to draw the hearts of a multitude to me center; where, being all attracted by one high, and all attentive to one subject, all in-

h a e fir

boun

e wh

the

up Gra

the

why chu ther

is th

formed from one fountain of light, all supplied from one fountain of mercy and grace, and a filled with delight from one fountain of ever lafting and infinite love, their hearts and fentiments coalesce at once, and they become though many, as it were but one On thi account, a name and a place in God's houf is faid to be better than the dearest and mot at honourable fruits of mere natural life, ' fon and daughters;' because the enjoyment vit and true honours arifing from fellowship with the people of God are superior to those which have fpring from any other branch of social life of not earth.

If this be true, how highly unlovely is i not for any Christian, who deserves that honour fait able name, to make light of that divinely con flituted relation? The Scripture speaks of thur believers being added to the church daily, an explains this in another place, by the follow in the ing unequivocal and expressive fentence: 'The wer' first gave themselves to the Lord, and to on over another by the will of God.' Their unitin he with the church of Christ was not an act of make their own free choice, which they might per fello form if they pleased, or omit without any ju blame; but it is expressly declared to be b ied

al

er

the will of God that they fo gave themselves up to one another, having first, by Divine Grace, been enabled to give themselves up to the Lord.—Some believers fay, when asked why they live without the enjoyment of this church fellowship, seeing they have a right thereto, 'We belong to the church of Christ at large already, inasmuch as we are members on of his body myftical, and are by Divine Grace ent vitally united to our Head.'-So did those vit believers above mentioned, for they could not hic have given themselves to the Lord had they not received divine life from him with whom is the fountain of life. Indeed those who are is in not vitally united to Christ by a living and our fuitful faith (which is the gift of God) have con no right either to the honours or benefits of so thurch fellowship. We have an awful proof an of this truth in the case of Simon Magus, and low in the divine and fudden vengeance which the wertook Ananias and Sapphira in the very on overt of their own hypocrify. But to answer itin he above objection, when a real believer ct c makes use of it to excuse his neglect of church per ellowship. Give me leave, my dear fellow ju Christian, whoever you are, to say your rea-e b boning on this point is just as good as if a nobleman's fon, in difguife and from home should fay, ' I know I am a son and heir of dvid fuch a noble family, and therefore I neither wish to be so esteemed by others, or to enjo s, w me adv rela

wh

wh

Er

nd a

the honours and privileges of my father house. Wise men of every description praise consistency of character and conductive terms. but where is the confiftency of loving Chri and Christians, and yet not openly and full professing to love either?

Is it not confiftent,' fome may fay, 't continue under that profession in which w

were brought up by our parents, or other onfe friends, without inquiring very nicely int

the merits of it; especially seeing many goo and worthy Christians in our day do the race fame, and are well accounted of?

It may be confiftent with a state of wilh darkness (which all men who hear and obeyng this the gofpel are declared by the word of God; cipl be in) to fuspend inquiry into that true fourd and of divine intelligence, the Sacred Scripture wet for fear of discovering unwelcome truth there are but how it can be confistent with ' old thin ant being passed away, and all becoming new to look to old things for a light to walk in the Lord's new way by, it would require a contract erable degree of invention to explain. My wice to inquiring Christians on this subject, , whether in the pariour, from the pulpit, from the prefs, ' Examine the New Teftament closely for yourselves, take your Lord's advice in this as well as in all other things relative to religion,'- ' call no man father which is on earth, for one is your Father, which is in heaven."

he nri

ull

6.9

2 W

Error needs a great deal of defending to keep from finking into oblivion; a great deal of quivocation to hide its certain and natural the onsequences from being detected by honest int equiry; and a great deal of learning and rhe-goo wic to plead its cause:—but, in order to em-th race truth, we need only light to see it by, and an heart to love it.

ilfi Has not he who is the Truth itfelf faid, ' By this thall all men know that ye are my difodt ciples, if ye have love one to another?'our and how can Christians better express their we to each other, or better manifest it to the here arounding world, than by living in a conhim ant attention to all the endearing ties of new burch fellowship; to renounce the world and at on Christ, by being publicly baptized, as on tact of obedience to HIM, in the facred name

hick

nio

arth

ise

at

we elov

ho l

ivifi niv

rece

hem

mn

uent

dra

real han

he o att

ave

of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Ho Choft: to unite ourselves openly to the whom we have good reason to esteem obedie followers of the Lamb of God; to fit wit them at the fame table, and commemorated dying love of Jefus as the one Fountain of o spiritual life; yea, to feed all at once by fait on his broken body, and view his precio blood as the rich wine that animates our in mortal fpirits; to confider ourselves as r deemed by the fame Almighty Friend, and walk together in communion of heart on o way to the fame everlafting home, are fure uniting and endearing ordinances. As the who belong to the fame family can with pre priety be more free one with another the fuch as are only on a vifit, fo Christians units in church fellowship can, by virtue of the professional relation to each other, with f greater propriety exhort, rebuke, admonil and even, by their animating mutual exampl provoke one another to love and good work than they can obey those relative precept wear who, though they are brethren, have made no mutual profession of their divine kindre to each other. 'The righteous,' fays the let Pfalmift, ' shall flourish like the palm-trees

he

rees

d they are faid to grow best when planted ick together. Heaven is all fociety and all nion; and why should not the church on lie ath be as much like heaven as possible? Yea, wil seven faid of the primitive church on earth, et at the whole multitude of the disciples for were of one heart and of one foul.' But, fail eloved, is not individual obedience essential mutual agreement and harmony in subjects in the fame government? Let Christians take so ead, therefore, how they charge the churches and the hold with strict communion with causing wisions among God's people, feeing it is are ally wilful disobedience of a plainly revealed recept of our great King that thuts any of problem (who bear worthy characters) out from the mmunion with our churches. tently faid, 'there is a line of feparation the drawn between different denominations of h fi real Christians;' but furely it is no more an reasonable to ask, Who draws this line?
heobedient, who do as the Lord has bidden ork iem, without making carnal objections to his wealed will? or the disobedient, who refuse hattend to his divine command, because they we been previously prejudiced against it? s the the confequences of difagreement among

Mo

hrif

or in f: a here

nate, tho

ould

an b

he r eft;

ear t far mita.

atur

okin

his

Lo

pro

lank nita em,

enc

ility

fubjects of the fame kingdom chargeable the obedient or disobedient subjects? Sure not on the obedient, but on the disobedien at least if it be a righteous government.

Now as I suppose no Christian will dispu the righteousness of Christ's authority in the churches, fo none can prove that obedien rendered to his revealed will is the real cauf though it may fometimes be the innocent of casion, of divisions in the church.

As trees often transplanted, even if the live, grow little, and bear little fruit; fo fe the most part rambling Christians, although really the children of God, are far from bein equally useful or happy with those that beior to lively and well-ordered churches; for the neither abide long enough under one ministr to imbibe the spirit of it, and form clear an ad a connected ideas of doctrine; nor perceive the beauty of its influence on the practice and for cial conduct of those who are instructed by And, even supposing fuch to have talents for usefulness to others, before those talents a ripened into just esteem among one people, th fubject of them is transplanted into a distant and different foil, where he must strike roo into new connections before he can either know or be known to any good purpofe.

Moreover, a well ordered church affords a hristian such near views of the best examples mimitation as cafual fociety can feldom boaft and, even should it be objected here, that here are instances of the nearest, most intithe ate, and frequent fellowship among some ho belong not to any particular church, it uld be easily proved that church fellowship an be no bar to fuch intimacy, but is rather he nurfery where fuch focial plants thrive at; and being of course more looked after, far from being small even in spiritual things. ein nitation is an effential quality of human ture, whether confidered in its depraved or the newed state. The apostle speaks of proift oking one another to love and to good works; an and again, it is faid of Christ himself, that he eth as left us ' an example that we should follow d fo his steps."

the

fe oug

e, th iftar

roc

eithe

Look, and be like; might perhaps ferve as s fo proverb to all ranks and descriptions of s at lankind. We fometimes even infenfibly titate that in others, by being much with em, which on reflection we disapprove. ence how striking the propriety, beauty, and lity of that exhortation with promife, live

Hea

ceed

kno

Am

or g

ing | with ima

terru

Meff

churc perie quite omi

ann

hat .

The re f

hara

ind 1

hara

omp

anny

omp

ubtif

forme out from among them, and be yeld parate, faith the Lord; touch not the und clean thing, and I will receive you, and will be your Father, and ye shall be me fons and daughters, faith the Lord A mighty. This last mentioned scripture me turally suggests the idea of another beautiffeature in a church of Christ; namely, that is to a Christian as his home; he visits else where, but he dwells in the church; yea, or Covenant God and Father calls Zion he dwelling-place; and where should sons and daughters dwell, but in their Father's house As our sweet British Psalmist sings.

There would I find a fettled rest, While others go and come; No more a stranger or a guest, But like a child at home.

The necessary bleffings which support at render life comfortable, as food, rest, and sciety, are all sweetened to us by being enjoyed at home. And the writer of this list Essay can witness, for one, that a spiritulione is a Home indeed; having enjoyed smany years that great blessing in one of the livelieft and largest of our churches, and under an excellent ministry, which may the great Head of the church continue to blefs and fucged for many years to come! And to this I know I shall have many readers that will fay. Amen. Come then, dear fellow Christians, or go, which everyfuits you best, and, obeying his commands who is King in Zion, unite with fome church on earth in that holy and inimate fellowship which needs only to be inerrupted by the Messenger, the welcome Messenger, who brings your dismission to the hurch triumphant. I fpeak from happy exerience, as well as with the word of God quite on my fide, in highly and warmly reommending focial religion; and therefore annot but hope, in dependence on the Lord, hat I shall meet with some success.

t

H

di

njo

litt

ritu

ed f

ft

The strength and beauty of social religion re founded on, and consist in, similarity of baracter, union of interest, unity of heart, and harmony of conduct: but similarity of baracter cannot be known without frequent comparison of sentiment; union of interest and the well understood without frequent comparison of evidence; unity of heart cannot build but by means of mutual knowledge and

m

of 211 be de

no

one wi

the ant fair

my but thi

acc

blif

are tha

whi

23 V

com amo vev othe

as t balr

who reciprocal communication; neither can then be harmony of conduct in many, but as far a in all their actions they keep one end in view or act from one pure motive. Our divin Lord reprefents fimplicity of motive, or fingle eye, as the fubstance of wisdom: 'I thine eye be fingle, thy whole body shall be full of light.' What a shade of dishonou does this faying cast over all human policy which is but too much imitated in the con ducting of religious focieties, even churche where the gospel is professed in distinction from all ceremonies of men's deviling! It i hard for human wisdom to confent to b melted down and cast into the mould of gol Respectability of characte pel fimplicity. among men is one of the most refined bait the devil uses to catch Christ's fish with. Bu it is a truth, which must be felt sooner or late by every true Christian, that every degree of conformity to the world tends to make him coward before men, and a flave before God Gospel simplicity and true humility form th best basis for free communication in spiritua things. He that can look down on the fimple means of Christian fellowship, walks too muc on the lofty mountains of felf-efteem to gath

a

W in

r

1 hal

ou

cy con

che

tio

It i

b got acte bait

Bu

late ree o iim

God

m th ritua

mple

muc

many of the flowers which grow in the valleys of focial love. Social religion is the nurse of all the graces of the Holy Spirit in the fouls of believers; and those who have been most under her care can witness with me that she is not a dry nurse. Is it not pity that in this one point the fellowship of faints on earth one with another should fo far resemble that of the church militant with the church triumphant? We have infallible testimony that the faints in heaven are members of Christ's mystical body, and as such we love them; but we cannot convey our ideas of divine things to them, nor receive from them any account of the felicity, or manner of their blifsful state, that is referved for us, till we are as they. So we have credible testimony that the members of the feveral churches to which we belong are Christians, and, as far as we believe it, we rejoice with them in the common falvation; but we have few means among us, as churches, whereby we can convey our ideas of divine things freely to each other, fo as to enjoy literal fellowship. Yet as there can be no wound in Zion but there is alm in Gilead fuited to heal it, let thofe, gath who are convinced of the truth of these observations, apply to the great Physician of souls. requesting him, who alone has sufficient skill and power, to fend health and cure in this refpect to his churches.

an

of me

po:

to kno ftar

que eac

6 B

ft!

f to in t beer

abro

muc

free

and in al thin

whil

ther

him.

It

T

The instruction and establishment of the members of Christ's mystical body in the knowledge and experience of all that pertains to his fpiritual kingdom, especially in the knowledge of Christ himself, his near and vital relation to them, and all the benefits and bleffings which flow to them through the channel of his mediation—the oneness of their interest, as different members of one headtheir unity of heart, frequent fellowship one with another as the mean of keeping alive and increasing that unity—their observance of the Redeemer's positive institutions, and obedience to all the moral precepts in his word I conceive to be the great ends which should be constantly kept in view, in the use of all the means of grace; and thefe ends can never be answered by an outward form of keeping together the church of Christ, though that may be both needful and ufeful in its place yet the most that can reasonably be expected from the exercise of such a form of church discipline, or government, as it is sometime called, is an outward appearance of peace, and a decent attention to each other in a way of common or more intimate civility: fuch means may keep up the peace which stands opposed to outward confusion; but are not likely to promote that peace which is built on mutual knowledge and good understanding, and which stands opposed to envy and discontent. Frequent heart fellowship, and much delight in each other, are the beauties of church order: 'By this,' faid our Lord, 'shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.'

ns

he

nd

nd

he ei

1-one

ive

0 be ord uld

eve

oing

that ace

arch

me

The fellowship of the church, as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles, appears to have been maintained by the love of Christ shed abroad in their hearts, and made known by much delight in each other's company, and free communication both of things temporal and spiritual one with another. And Paul, in all his epistles to the churches, keeps these things in view in a way of positive precept, while out ward discipline may, in general, rather be said to be implied than expressed by him.

It has been, and will perhaps still be, obested by many, when such doctrine as this is for]

of t ever with term

ther

ligh

is at Red

his mak to t fané

one own

fel

T

advanced, that the Lord's people in general have not time or opportunity for frequent focial interviews, and that fuch things are ant to break in upon the order of families: but these objections, if closely examined, will be found to be excuses, rather than reasons. What calling is there which ought to take the lead of our heavenly calling? What is the advantage of laying up earthly treasures, compared with that of increasing in the wisdom which cometh from above? And what the order of private families to the order of the great family of heaven, the church of Christ? · The Lord loveth the gates of Zion more . than all the dwellings of Jacob.' The order of families is without doubt of great importance; but the filence of fcripture respecting 'Lo the time and manner of it, is a fufficient reafon why it should always be attended to in 'etl fubordination to the more important Christian duties of public worthip and focial fellowship.

I take the liberty of stating here a few reafons for frequent and intimate focial worship. 'tim Christians were all involved in one fad state of depravity and condemnation; and they are all called by divine grace to look to one object ha 1

).

ot

12

)e

S.

18 1-

1-m

he he

13 re ier

ng

12.

IB if-ect

for life and eternal falvation; that one object of their hope being so highly exalted that every one may look to him by faith at once without the least occation of jealoufy, or interruption from each other, any more than there is for an individual to conclude that the light of the fun is not his, because every one is at liberty to enjoy the fame bleffing. Redeemer paid one price for the ranfom of all his people; and the same Almighty Spirit makes Jefus, as a complete Saviour, manifest to them all; and as they are all faved and anchified in one way, so they are all going to one everlasting home.

The man Jefus loved his church even to his or- own death, and has left it this commandment, Love one another, as I have loved you.'-He that hath my commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me thall be loved of my Father; 'and I will love him, and will manifest my-'felf to him.' And again, ' As the Father hath loved me, fo have I loved you; conip. 'tinue ye in my love.' And again, 'This is of my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends:' it appears that from wou this word the apostle drew his reason for fay. Trace ing, " We ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.' The fame apostle, I think, fomewhere fays, ' Love is the fulfilling of the ofpo where fays, 'Love is the running hat 'law.' From thefe, and many other feriphate of the law is the fubflance of the all practical and experimental religion; and me a from the nature of divine love, in the heart of such a Christian, it is evident that social RELI-GION is its HEAVEN upon earth. Not only man, but all creatures, are made for fociety, eva and without the prefence and mutual enjoyment of each other, would be comparatively my, miferable: but the delight which springs from me w Christian fellowship is peculiarly exquisite, as mily well as peculiarly lasting; its foundation, its bligg author, its nature, its motive, and its end, all cufto confpire to render it incomparable and inexpreffible! If thefe things are true, why have not the members of churches, in the prefent day, more knowledge of, and fellowthip with, in one another? Oh that fuch a query were pray flarted by the Holy Spirit himself in the heart ad, of every individual of that description! Suppofe fuch a plain and honest inquiry were even to become univerfal among Christians would not the answer be something like this? Tradition has fet his foot on the heel of retealed truth, and has by this means fo trodeden off the shoes of the preparation of the he tofpel of peace from the feet of the faints, be that they cannot walk in the paths of focial of one for well as they were wont to do. If any me ask us why we worthip in public during of such and such hours on the Lord's day? it is 15 nough that we can answer-Custom and our my own convenience have inclined us to the obevance of those hours. But should any one, by being inquire of us why we have few, if ely my, means of intimate and actual fellowship on me with another as children of the fame family? what a pity is it that we are equally its bliged to answer in this case, as in that—all lustom and our own convenience have inclinex- dus to the neglect of these. Was this the ave nanner of the primitive Christians? No. They continued daily from house to house ith in fellowinip, and breaking bread, and in vere prayer.' Religion was their one concern; though in umber they were so many thousands, th vere but one.

ans

fore eel,

d of

As for the usefulness of those meetings of the Lord's people, commonly called experiment ence and conference meetings, I believe it is known, wherever thy are judiciously and zer loufly attended to; and this is perhaps a left much as can be faid of any other means. I the former of these meetings the Lord's pec ple are found faying to their brethren, as Da our vid of old, 'Come all ye that fear God, an In 'I will declare what he hath done for m foul.' And many are the advantages a this tending this lovely conduct: the various de from vices of Satan to entangle and perplex the minds of believers are exposed; the influence of earthly things on the mind is confessed, an mutually lamented before the Lord; the fr quent deliverances the faints experience in the times of trouble, are recorded to the manife in honour of their great Deliverer; the faithfu ness of a covenant God in answering praye dof and honouring them that honour him, abundantly testified; the power of the cro of Christ to crucify fin in the heart is declared man the ufefulness and fuitableness of the preache word is acknowledged; love is increased auch faith is strengthened, hope is enlarged; at foretaste of heaven itself is often experienced er earth: even when the people come togeer with their hearts comparatively cold, rerecal and free communication is often like estriking together of a cold slint and cold I ed, and there comes out fire; as, faith the see seeman, 'Iron sharpeneth iron, so doth the ountenance of a man his friend.'

an In the latter of thefe, called conference edings, the light the Lord is pleafed to cast this own word, while his people are reading from day to day, is fet forth for mutual edith ation with much advantage; while he that morteth, according to the apostle's advice, an uits on exhortation.

5 0

m

de

fre The Hely Scriptures are a mine of spiritual e i wh without a bottom; and as the Divine his is the only infallible expositor of them, his dopens them to whom he will, the utter negacy dof conference meetings seems to have in it that the conference meetings the spirit in the hearts the faints. On this subject I beg leave to rered mmend to the ferious confideration of those the ho have in any meafure the conducting of fed wich affairs in their hands, the twelfth ar apter to the Romans, from the 3d to the

Poi

Frie nd a rise

Sho

end.

ethi eleft

hildi

hrift

eath

talt, ther od's teat ark!

chapter of 1st Corinthians, and the four chapter to the Ephesians. I humbly conceit that no impartial Christian, whom God h favoured with the gift of discerning truth the benefit of others, can deliberately examithose and many other portions of God's wor and yet believe the neglect of conferent meetings, especially in large churches who there are gifted members, to be an innoce thing.

So great is the lofs which the churches for tain by the neglect of these things, and great would naturally be the mutual advatage of reviving their use, that whoever must be the honoured instrument of so good a work he may be justly called, in the language prophecy, 'The repairer of the breach; to restore of paths to dwell in.'

INDEX,

Pointing out the first line of each Hymn, mi

ren vhe

nd

wor ge

Friend there is—your voices join - Page 71 garden fenc'd from common earth - 77 ad am I blest with Jesu's love - 21 ad may I hope that, when no more - 65 is ye saints, and sing below - 83 Short Eslay on Church Fellowship, &c. 135 nd, finners, bend, or you must break 115 thren, while we sojourn here 56 defitial dove, defcend 119 mildren of the King of grace - 117 mild knows the heights of heav'nly blifs 74 me, lift up your joyous eyes 42 me, faints, and view the grave - 109 me, ye that fear and love the Lord - 112 ath is the fervant of your Lord - 97 ath has no sting to pierce the foul - 132 aw near, O ye blessed, and help me to sing 86 alt, ye faints, the Lord your King - 39 ther, our hearts would now aspire - 18 od's nature and his name we read - 82 rat was the price to justice due - 14
ak! from the crofs, a gracious voice - 17

INDEX.

O will oh, oh vo on ee on t on t our rilgraif raif raif kejoo kavio meejoinna

Hofannah to his name Hofannah to the God of love How free, how glorious was the grad How full of truth and grace How light, while fupported by grace How pleafant is the gate How fweet to wait upon the Lord How fweet, how heav'nly is the fight How vaft the fufferings, who can te How willing was Jefus to die
Jefus, how heav nly is the place Jefus, away from earth I fly Jefus, to thy great name we fing Jefus, thy faints affemble here I know that my Redeemer lives In expectation fweet
King Jesus, reign for evermore - Life, light, and love, and liberty Lift up your heads, ye gates Lift up your hearts in folemn lays Lo, he comes, array'd in vengeance Lord, at thy feet in dust I lie Lord, my very heart would bleed Love is the sweetest bud that blows
My foul, whene'er thou shalt arive My foul, unfetter'd by the skies -	•
No earthly city can compare No hand can move in earth or hell Not unto us, but to thy grace
O death, where is thy cruel fling	•

INDEX.

what a wedding day Page 111
h, how the thought that I shall know 130 what a garden will be feen - 10 n earth the fong begins 46
a the-brink of fiery ruin 37 n the wings of faith uprifing 4 ur fins were laid upon his head - 75 Igrims we are, to Canaan bound - 63
raife him that made you, all ye isles - 113 raife ye the Lord, th' eternal King - 103 raise ye the Lord, let sinners praise - 108 raife your Redeemer, praise his name 101
ejoice in God, the word commands - 15 ejoice, ye faints of God 44
wjour of finners, from thy death - 64
kep of Christ's redeemed fold - 127
inners, away from Sinai fly 33 empted fouls, arife and fing 27 lis heav'n begun below 95 lis good to wait upon the Lord 24
he heav'ns above our heads declare - 80
he Lord, whose throne is fix'd on high 54
he hofts of heav'n, at Christ's command 105
he Lord himself of life 120
he peace which through the storm - 49
he Lord, that grace and glory gives - 125
he faints above, in spotless white - 25
he various trees, and plants, and flow'rs 81 hen we shall see and know 89 ho' we're still with foes furrounded - 58 no' foes in the way we oftentimes meet 56

INDEX.

Tho' eafe and plenty, fruits of wealth Page 12
Thus far on our way to Zion 5
To Zion we go, the feat of our king -
To him they thout—to him alone 10
We blefs th' eternal Three - 12
We long for that fair morning light - 1
Welcome, dear brethren, to this place - 8
What is it for a faint to die
What joys will crown that happy hour - 2
When firm I stand on Zion's hill - 4
When I by faith my Saviour fee 5
When Jefus, both of God and men - 7
When Iwelling Jordan o'er us rolls -
When fome fweet promife warms our heart is When on my beloved I gaze 3
Wherefore thould dark events alarm .
While pilgrims on this earthly ball -
Who can forbear to fing 13
Why do the faints rejoice
Why should we thrink at Jordan's flood -
Why should the faints be fill'd with dread &
Ye faints that bow at Jesu's feet - 6 Yes, Jesus did resign his breath 5
Zion's the city where I dwell

SUPPLEMENT

TO

WALWORTH HYMNS,

BY

THE SAME AUTHOR.

Corr

The

is

.

.

5

SUPPLEMENT, &c.

HYMN I.

Richt happy is the man
Who treats the world as vain,
Compar'd with joys that Christians know;
Whose foul, redeem'd by blood,
And made alive to God,
The earnest feels of heaven below.

When the last trumpet's found Alarms creation round, is heart will glow with calm defire; Such folid joy and peace He knows, as will not cease then earth dissolves in liquid fire.

His manfion-house will stand
When all the solid land
aks with the weight of wrath divine;
When darkness veils the skies,
His soul will thro' them rise, ad with immortal splendour shine.

W

oor Th

nd

ut f ut o

To

wh o fee

nd r

Tell,

Who

nd G

And

hea

nd fe his is

For t ll we

Imo

O Lord of Hosts, thy word
Sure refuge will afford
For those who trust thy promise here,
When all the pow'rs below
And pow'rs of darkness too,
Before thy presence quake with sear.

Then let my foul be found
On this terrestrial ground
Number'd with them that fear thy name
That when the Lord shall come
To take his ransom'd home,
My lot and theirs may prove the same.

HYMN II.

WREATH'S TUNE.

WHAT must it be to dwell above
At God's right hand, where Jesus reign Since the sweet earnest of his love O'erwhelms us on these dreary plains!
No heart can think, no tongue explain,
What bliss it is with Christ to reign!

When fin no more obstructs our fight,
When forrow pains our hearts no more
How shall we view the prince of light,
And all his works of grace explore!

that heights and depths of love divine fill there thro' endless ages shine!

Tis heav'n on earth to hear him fay,
When pow'r attends the gospel found,
for finner, cast thy doubts away,
Thou soon shalt be with glory crown'd;
and that bright crown shall never fade,
thine immortal on thy head.

ut oh, what music must it be
To hear his kind inviting voice and from the throne to welcome me, While all the heav'nly hosts rejoice ofee a foul redeem'd from hell, adrais'd, with God and saints to dwell!

ell, he has fix'd the happy day
When the last tears will wet our eyes, ad God shall wipe those tears away,
And fill us with divine surprise phear his voice, and see his face, ad feel his infinite embrace!

ns!

n,

ore

,

is is the heav'n I long to know;
For this, with patience, I would wait,
Il wean'd from earth, and all below,
I mount to my celestial feat,

A 3

For h, l In lut,

hin

WI

thrif

WI

lim

Con

us

Fro

"(

Liv

his

An

Vher Is t

his

And wave my palm, and wear my crown, And with the elders, cast them down.

HYMN III.

RANSOM'D fouls in every station,
Join to praise your glorious King;
We who taste a full falvation
Should the Saviour's honours sing.
Hallelujah,

Glory be to Christ our King-

Perfect praife we foon shall render On the blissful plains above, When in all his dazzling splendour We behold the God of Love: To his glory,

Every passion then will move.

But, fince none in heav'n denies him All the honours he can claim; Here on earth, where men despise him, Let us glory in his name: 'Tis our honour

In his caufe to fuffer shame.

Finile the great and wife reject him, Fond of outward pomp and shew; h, let none of us neglect him In his members mean and low; ht, as princes,

Treat the poorest faints we know.

hink (at the last trumpet's sounding, When the creatures all appear, his white throne surrounding), What delight 'twill be to hear, sim confessions

Us, as those that ferv'd him here!

Come, ye blefs'd, whom tribulation, "Sin, and Satan, could not move From embracing my falvation; "Come, enjoy my perfect love: Live for ever,

"With me on my throne above."

his to hear, before the Father And the bright angelic train, When all worlds are met together, Is the glory we would gain: his is honour, Crowns, compar'd with this, are vain.

HYMN IV.

Rai

T

Oh

Wi

Toi

W

Le

W

Th

01

V

T

Christ's Second Coming.

BATH ABBEY TUNE.

CHRIST the Lord will come again,
None shall wait for him in vain;
I shall then his glory see,
Christ will come, and call for me.
Not as when his humble birth
Grac'd the meanest place on earth;
Not as when his tender heart
Bled with sympathetic smart;

Not as when for us he stood Surety to an injur'd God;
Not as when our fins he bore,
Gash'd with wounds, and bath'd in gore;
But with trumpet's awful found,
With immortal glory crown'd;
On a bright celestial throne,
Our Redeemer will come down.

Then, when his Almighty voice Shakes the earth, and rends the skies, Rising millions will proclaim Our Emmanuel's glorious name. 'This is our redeeming God!'
Ranfom'd hofts will shout aloud,
'Praise, eternal praise, be giv'n,
'To the Lord of earth and heaven!'

Oh, that I may then be found,
With them, rifing from the ground!
Joining their immortal fong,
With a new celeftial tongue!
Let us own the Saviour's name,
Where the wicked count it shame;
Then the righteous Judge will own Our's before his Father's throne.

HYMN V.

Longing for Heaven in a waiting Spirit.

OTHAM AND TRURO TUNES.

Lord, when shall I, without a vail, Behold the Man who bore my sin; Constrain'd no longer to bewail That still that evil works within?

When shall my passions, all subdued, And moulded into perfect love, Receive impressions only good, And to thy glory always move?

He

WI

01

1

F

Bu

Ye

To

An

Me

F

F No

When shall I mount to that bright throne
By love divine prepar'd for me;
And with immortal praises crown
The head which droop'd on Calvary?

Till that bright moment, I would wait Submiffive to thy fov'reign will; And ask, at Judah's peaceful gate, The way to Zion's heav'nly hill.

There let me find a constant home, And see thy pow'r and glory shine; Till death with my dismission come, And I the church triumphant join.

Then what a shout will rend the skies From all the ransom'd hosts above! While I, the chief of sinners, rife, Perfect in holiness and love!

HYMN VI.

MELBOURN PORT TUNE.

CHRIST is our all-fufficient good, In him we live and move; Our health of foul and heavenly food Spring from his boundlefs love. He conquer'd death, and burst the grave,
And spoil'd infernal pow'r;
When, GOD OMNIPOTENT TO SAVE,
He rose, to die no more.

Now Lord of heav'n and earth he reigns, As King of Glory crown'd; And all the bright celestial plains With his high praise resound.

O! wretched earth, how poor wert thou If Christ were there confin'd! But will the Lord of Glory bow His heav'ns to bless mankind?

Yes, from his lofty throne above He fends his Spirit down, To overcome his foes by love, And raife them to a crown!

From the bright gospel car, he waves His strong two-edged sword; And conquers every soul he saves By his triumphant word.

Mercy, free mercy, is our fong When once we hear his voice; Peace, like a river, flows along, We drink, and we rejoice.

HYMN VII.

Gospel Invitation.

CHELMSFORD TUNE.

CONTRITE fouls, with broken spirit,
Cast yourselves at Jesu's feet;
View by faith his blood and merit,
You and justice there may meet.
Grace triumphant,
Shines in heaven, and reigns on earth.

(

1

7

Free falvation like a river
Flows from Christ's exalted throne;
Grace on earth, and heav'n for ever,
Are his princely gift alone:
Come and welcome
Ask for grace, and glory too.

Trust his faithfulness, and try it,

None e'er trusted him in vain;

Plead his word, he can't deny it,

Boldly ask, and you'll obtain;

Come to Jesus—

He will cast out none that come.

Turn away from all your doing,
Thro' the crofs alone draw near;
Your best works would prove your ruin,
Your worst fins are cancel'd there:
Full falvation—

From the crofs of Jesus flows.

Turn from Sinai's awful thunder,
'Tis the gospel's blissful found Bids you tread, with joy and wonder,
Free redemption's facred ground!
Crown the Saviour—

Trust his word, and shout his praise.

Lord, accept our adoration,
For thy grace, thus full and free;
Till we know complete falvation,
Till the Saviour's face we fee;
Then we'll praife him,
With immortal harmony.

Ho

W

Ete

Th

So

Soc

Av

An

W

No

1

HYMN VIII.

Seeing then that all thefe things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be? 2 Pet. iii. 11.

WHEN the last trumpet rends the skies, And shakes the solid earth beneath; When all the sleeping faints arise Triumphant o'er the power of death:

When he that made the world comes down, And calls the nations to his feet; Exalts the righteous to his throne, And drives the wicked from his feat:

How vast an honour will it be
To hear the Judge pronounce us blest;
Then, with immortal ecstafy,
To enter our eternal rest!

Thrice happy—and thrice awful day!
What folemn thoughts should finners feel!
And how should faints improve the way
As on they move to heav'n or hell!

How should we live who hope to reign For ever with the Lord above; While that high calling we sustain, The children of the God of love!

Eternal Spirit, let thy rays
Shine on our hearts, and guide us right,
Through all the paths of truth and grace,
To the bright realms of perfect light.

HYMN IX.

An Alarm to Sinners.

Sound an alarm, the Saviour cries, On Zion's holy hill; Soon the last trump will rend the skies, And God's just wrath reveal.

Awake, ye thoughtless flaves of fin, The awful fummons hear! And, from this favour'd hour, begin For judgment to prepare.

When Jesus shakes the folid ground, And bids the dead arise; No hiding place will then be found Through all the earth and skies.

el I

Expos'd to everlasting shame,
His foes will all appear:
The guilty then must bear the blame
Of all their actions here.

Yet, how attend the gospel found,
The Lord proclaims from heav'n,
Of all that feek I will be found,
Their fins shall be forgiv'n.'

Fly then for shelter to his blood, (He'll cast out none that come) And in the paradise of God You'll find a blissful home.

HYMN X.

The Glory of Christ.
MILEOURN PORT TUNE.

Well may the faints with wonder fing, When Christ their Lord appears; At fight of heaven's eternal King, In agony and tears!

When every precious tear that flows, And each rich drop of blood, The glory of that mercy thews Which brings them near to God, Twas he that fpoil'd the gloomy grave, When, as our Head, he rose; hrist is omnipotent to save, And strong to break his soes.

But who can fpeak his wondrous love, Or fing his boundlefs praife? No harmony but that above, An equal note can rife.

inite with infinite combines
In Christ for sinners slain;
In HIM the God all glorious shines,
In HIM the lowly MAN.

We never shall aright proclaim, Till we have tongues divine, What glories center in his name, And from his person shine.

Yet let each foul that mercy feels Proclaim his name aloud, Till on the everlafting hills We praife him as we would,

B

No Th

Th

Ar

Or

An

TH

The

T

The

Pro

0

HYMN XI.

Grace the Way to Glory.

LORD, 'tis a heav'n of joy and love
To feel thy gracious presence here!
And 'twill be heav'n complete above,
When we thy perfect likeness bear,
And see thy truth all glorious shine,
Replete with rays of love divine.

All honour to thy name alone,
And thanks, eternal thanks be giv'n,
For thou hast brought sweet mercy down,
And rais'd our hearts and hopes to heav
And thou alone can'ft keep our feet,
Till safe around thy throne we meet.

Still let thy grace fufficient prove,
To guide us on in wifdom's ways;
To mould us by redeeming love,
And make us fruitful to thy praife;
That while our hearts rejoice in God,
Our lives may spread his name abroad.

But oh, should fin disturb our peace,
And awful fear our hearts alarm,
Dear Saviour, fly for our release,
And guilt of its dread sting disarm:
No balm but thy rich blood can heal
The wounds which broken spirits feel.

Thus will the tree of life afford
Both healing balm, and heavinly food;
And we shall live, and own the Lord
Supremely wife, supremely good:
On earth proclaim redeeming love,
And sound it louder still above.

HYMN XII.

Gospel Invitation after Sermon.
MILBOURN PORT TUNE.

THE voice of fovereign mercy founds
The call of grace from heav'n;
The precious name of Christ resounds.
That sins may be forgiv'n.

wn, heav

The glorious gospel standard waves
On invitation's gale, Proclaiming, ' Jesus freely faves—
' Nor can his promise fail.'

Let

Sal

Dir

An

Are

Fro

The

Elei

Toin

Hav

And Are

And

The

And

Shal To I

And

His countenance with beams of love And rays of mercy thine; His bowels with compation move, His ear to pray'r inclines.

O, then be wife, and feek his face
While pardon may be found;
That you may fing of fovereign grace
On glory's facred ground.

Sinners, behold the LOWLY MAN!

Behold the GLORIOUS GOD:

Look to the Lamb for finners flain,

And prove his precious blood.

Ye faints, your loud hofannas raife
To his exalted name;
And crown him with immortal praife,
For worthy is the Lanb.

HYMN XIII.

On Election.

CUMBERLAND TUNE.

BEFORE the Lord of glory bend, Ye humble faints, and own his pow'r, Wide as his righteous laws extend Let all that hear his name adore, His will is law—his laws are just, Let all the creatures in him trust.

Mivation's blifsful river rolls
Directed by his will alone;
And all the rights of ranfom'd fouls
Are charter'd from th' eternal throne.
From this immortal Fountain fprings
The grace which makes us priefts and kings.

Electing grace, and dying love, Join'd with eternal right and pow'r, Have brought down glory from above; And up to glory's blifsful fhore, Are bound to raife the chofen race, And prove falvation is by grace.

Then let us glory in the Lord,
And look for firength to him alone;
For all who trust his faithful word,
Shall fing his honours round the throne;
To his great name ascribe the praise,
And shout, Salvation is by grace.

HYMN XIV.

CHRIST is the only way to God, No other path we need; The voice of pardon, through his blood, Brings heav'nly news indeed!

Oh, let me hear it, for his fake,
Thou God of grace divine;
Let me by faith the bleffing take,
And be the glory thine.

May thy good Spirit make him known
As crucified for me:
The crofs, which led me to the crown,
Lord, let thy fervant fee.

Then will I fing his praise aloud,
Till finners, gath'ring round,
Inquire the way through Christ to God,
The way which I have found.

I'll tell each mourning foul, that feels
The guilt and pow'r of fin,
His blood the wounded confcience heals,
And makes the leper clean.

To the lome,

This is The The fo In h

And a And Witho

When A mai

Wit

* The

ome, all who feel yourselves undone, To this great sacrifice; ome, rest your souls on Christ alone, He'll bear you to the skies.

This is the way from death and hell, The way to heav'n and God; The foul that trufts him here thall dwell In his divine abode.

*HYMN XV.

Christian Contentment.

Though eafe and plenty, fruits of wealth,
And all the means of life and health,
And fweet convenience, pleafe;
Without foft clothing, downy bed,
Or ceiled roof above my heed,
With Christ I could find peace.

When he came down from heav'n to earth, A manger was his place of birth, And all his kindred poor;

^{*}Thefe two Hymns are altered from the measure in which they were before printed, because no tune could be found for them.

And while he wrought my righteoufness, Content, he fill'd a lowly place, Nor ask'd his Father more.

Why then should I, who taste his grace,
And hope in heaven to see his face,
Be careful by the way?
I shall enjoy a pleasant lot,
When earthly scences are all forgot,
In realms of endless day.

F

0

F

B

H

Angels and faints for company,
In that bleft manfion, I thall fee,
Myfelf immortal too;
And when, before my Saviour's threne
They cast their brightest honours down,
My foul, with theirs, shall bow.

For ever I shall fee HIM shine,
For ever more shall call HIM mine,
Whom heav'n's high hosts adore;
Then let him give the world away,
And grant HIMSELF and HEAV'N to me,
And I will ask no more.

HYMN XVI.

Heaven Anticipated.

Sweet is the thought, that I shall know
The man who suffer'd here below,
To manifest his love;
For me, and those whom I love best,
Or here, or with himself at rest,
In the bright realms above!

Not all things elfe are half fo dear
As his delightful prefence here;
What must it be on high!
His word as in the churches known,
Falls like a show'r of blestings down,
And makes them shout for joy.

But how must his celestial voice
Make our enraptur'd hearts rejoice,
When, from his glorious throne,
He calls us, to come near his feat,
And we, at his once-pierced feet,
Our diadems cast down!

'Come in, thou bleffed, fit by me,
'With my own life I ranfom'd thee;'
The Lord to each will fay:

Or

Al

Ble

Ble

Hi

Bu

To

Thou now shalt dwell with me at home; Ye blisful mansions, make him room, For ever here to stay.'

When Jefus thus invites us in,
How will the heav'nly hofts begin
To fhout us welcome home!
Come in ! come in! the blifsful found
Will make the crystal walls refound,
For joy that we are come!

HYMN XVII.

HELMSLEY TUNE.

Bow'd with fruitless forrow down;
By the broken law convicted,
Through the cross behold the crown!
Look to Jesus—

Mercy flows through him alone.

Take his eafy yoke and wear it,
Love will make obedience fweet;
Christ will give you strength to bear it,
While bis wisdom guides your feet,
Safe to glory—

Where his ranfom'd captives meet.

Sweet, as home, to pilgrims weary,
Light to newly open'd eyes;
Or full fprings in defarts dreary,
Is the rest the cross supplies:
All who taste it—

Shall to reft immortal rife:

Bleffed are the eyes that fee him,
Bleft the ears that hear his voice:
Bleffed are the fouls that truft him,
And in him alone rejoice;
His commandments—

Then become their happy choice.

But to fing the rest of glory

Mortal tongues far short must fall;

Tongues celestial strive to reach it,

But it soars beyond them all:

* Faith believes it—Hope expects it—Love defires it—

But it overwhelms them all.

[&]quot;Helmfley Tune will admit all these words if none are repeated.

HYMN XVIII.

Pleading in Christ's Name.

While we for peace and pardon plead;
We rest on what thine equal Son
Has done and suffer'd in our stead.

We own thy law is just and pure,
We own its breach our fin and shame:
But from its curse would stand secure,
Shelter'd beneath his mighty name.

Christ did not take its rights away;
But with new splendor did restore
Its injur'd honours, on that day
When he our fins and forrows bore.

Then let thy glories on us shine, With gentle beams of quick'ning grace; If Christ is ours, and we are thine, In him let us behold thy face.

Oh, for his fake, thy Spirit fend,
The promis'd Comforter DIVINE;
To manifest our Heav'NLY FRIEND,
And feal us, by adoption, thine.

His gracious voice will calm our fears.

Direct our hopes to thine abode,
And teach us, in this vale of tears,
To triumph in our Saviour, God.

HYMN XIX.

Praise for the Scriptures.

PRAISE the Lord who reigns above For his word of truth and grace, Which reveals redeeming love; This demands our highest praise.

In his word we find our food,

By his word his will we know;

Praife the Lord, fupremely good,

From whom life's rich fountains flow.

Never-failing fprings of grace In this facred volume rife; TRUTH DIVINE, from every place, Shines to make the fimple wife.

Mines of rich instruction lie

Treasur'd in those golden lines;

There the PEARL of heav'nly dye

With celestian splendor shines.

Healing palm for wounded fouls
In this fruitful garden grows;
Mercy's plenteous river rolls,
Health despensing where it flows.

Praise the Lord that from above
Sent the PEARL OF GLORY down;
By that gift of boundless love
Sealing all his wealth our own!

HYMN XX.

N

H

T

For the Lord's Table.

We blefs the Lord who fent his Son To ferve and fuffer in our flead; We blefs the Son who left his throne, And for our ranfom freely bled.

Lord, feal thy Son's redeem'd by blood, And let thy Spirit's quick'ning rays Draw'ns, and keep us near to God, Till death thall end our mortal days,

Then from the church where now we fing, Then from the field where now we fight, Receive us each a priest and king, Crown'd in our great Redeemer's right. Till then, beneath thy peaceful crofs.

Shelter'd from danger, we would reft:
And taste the bliss which from it flows,
The bliss of all our blessings best.

No heav'n, if Jesus is not there, Can any place afford below; And heav'n itself, when we come there, Will from his blifsful presence flow.

Be this the pledge that we are thine,
The earnest of our rest above;
To feel thy glorious presence shine,
And drink the streams of pard'ning love.

HYMN XXI.

Believer's Baptism.

Y E vansom'd finners, joyful stand.

And view the path your Saviour trod:

Hear from his word his own command,

And walk with Christ the heav'nly road.

Think how he left his glorious throne, And put on mortal flesh for you! Made all your sins and griefs his own, And bore the curse to sinners due!

t,

Think how (baptiz'd in forrow's flood)

He funk beneath his Father's frown,
When, burthen'd with the wrath of God,
He utter'd that heart-piercing groan—

Why, oh, my God!—my Father, why Hast thou forsaken me thy Son?

Why does my fore and bitter cry

Rebound unanswer'd from thy throne?'

All ye who know him, best can tell
Why Jesus pass'd that awful hour,
To fave your souls from sin and hell;
Then shout his praise and own his power.

Shout to the Lord that died below,
Shout to the Lord that reigns above;
Let all that his falvation know
Proclaim the wonders of his love.

Jefus, we fing thy boundless pow'r,
And join obedience with our praise;
Now let thy presence crown this hour,
And make us joyful in thy ways.

duder. Beforetherord of glory 174. Christis our all-sufficient 164. Ekristis the only way to got 76 Ehrist the Lord will come 162. Comeye, souls by sin afflict 80. Contrite, souls, with broken 16h Father, before thine awful 182. Land, tis a heaver of joy Hove 172. Lord, whom shall I, without a 163. Traisethe Lord who peigns 183. Ransomisouls in every 16 Righthappyistheman 15%. Cound an alarmythe daw 169.

Theroice of sovereign mercy 73. Though ease theuty fruits of 177. We blefsthe Lord who seuthis 184. Well may the saint with 170. What must the towell some 15. Whenthelastampetrents 168. Geransomesunersjoyful 185. 03440 ds11

9.3.7. 3.70. 13. 185. 1